THE HERALD received a copy of this request sheet which was given to a public safety employe at Harper College.

by DIANE GRANAT

Harper College's president and board members apparently have misused the services of the college public safety department — requesting the use of official college cars for personal business, being chauffeured to and from O'Hare Airport and train stations and to secret meetings of the board at a Schaumburg restaurant.

Past and present employes of the college's public safety department told The Herald that College Pres. Robert Lahti has requested the use of public safety vehicles to:

- Pick up Lahti's son from a soccer game in Hoffman Estates and drive him to a friend's house.
- Drive Lahti and other administrators to a restaurant and have public safety cadets wait to drive them back to the college in Palatine.
- Deliver mail and papers to Lahti's home at 749 Milton Rd., Inverness.
- Drive Lahti to a meeting at the Bank of Elk Grove, where he is a member of the board of directors.
- Go to Woodfield Shopping Center in Schaumburg to help Lahti's wife start her stalled car.

The college's security officers also have picked up board members at the train station and brought them to meetings at the college, driven board members home from meetings, and taken them to restaurants before negotiation sessions began, several employes and board members said.

Lahti, attending a convention in Denver, said Monday night he would respond to The Herald's findings at a later date "but at this time I have no comment."

REGULATIONS REGARDING the use of college-owned vehicles state that they "will be used for official college business only." The rules also say "telephone requests will not be accepted" for the use of the vehicles.

Robert Hughes, director of the physical plant, said, "We don't run any personal taxi service here for anybody."

But public safety employes said requests to transport Lahti and his family were telephoned from Lahti's secretary. A secretary in the safety department said the safety officers keep records of the number of hours they spend on escorts, but they do not record "last minute requests."

"We don't have them (records) for last minute requests — if a board member needs to be picked up at the train station, or if Dr. Lahti's children need to be picked up at the last minute and taken some place," said Deborah Weity, a secretary in public safety.

Gordon Wallace, supervisor of public safety, said cadets in the department are sent to drive and pick up college administrators and board members from the airport if it is "on college business. We wouldn't take them on personal business," he said.

John Pearson, a former employe of the safety department, said he drove Lahti to the airport several times.

"It appeared it was college business but there were times he would come back with a fishing pole," Pearson said.

PEARSON ALSO SAID "one time a squad car had to jump Mrs. Lahti's car at Woodfield" and one cadet "drove Lahti and other administrators to a restaurant and waited in the car until they were done."

"We were always driving board

Tax plan for business district upgrade urged

The creation of a special services tax district to fund proposed improvements for the central business district in Arlington Heights was recommended Monday by the village board's special downtown improvements committeee.

The committee headed by Trustee August Bettman also recommended the repeal of the village's rigid parking ordinance which has been blamed for stunting the growth of the downtown shopping area.

Those recommendations and one made last month to build 500-car parking garages on each side of the business district will be sent to the village board, for consideration at its July 12 meeting.

THE COMMITTEE WILL meet next month to draft a recommendation concerning the construction of pedestrian shopping malls in the central business district.

The boundaries for the special tax district should be the same as the commercial zoning district, according to the committee's recommendation. Such a tax district would mean the proposed parking garages and any other improvements that may be approved will be paid for by downtown property owners, rather than by all Arlington Heights property owners.

If the creation of the special tax district is approved by the village board, a majority of the property owners within the district will have to file objections to block it, Village Atty. Jack Siegel said.

"If 51 per cent of them file objections opposing either the creation of the tax district or the issuance of bonds, then the project does not go forward and cannot be resurrected for two years," Siegel said.

During discussion of the need for parking garages, the committee stressed that businessmen on the north side of the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks should feel assured that the second parking garage will be built on their side of the tracks. The village administration is attempting to find an adequate site, Bettman said.

THE FIRST GARAGE will be built on the south side of the railway tracks on village-owned property on the northeast corner of Vail and Sigwalt streets.

ACHING MUSCLES will haunt Mark Krysiak, but his skate-boarding buddies, Tim Schuld and Bob Larson, are enjoying the free ride. The boys are winding their way through Arlington Heights.

Happy Birthday USA

Drive-in menus, facilities change to match tastes

by LEA TONKIN

Today

It's sure not like Happy Days anymore.

Remember those root beer stands alongside the highway with dozens of teen-agers in shiny old cars and the short-skirted car hops skating their way around the drive-in? Those good old days are indeed old and gone.

Dog n Suds Inc., an Arlington Heights based firm and a keystone of the drive-in restaurant business through the years, has experienced the dramatic change in consumer habits, resulting in a dramatic change in the restaurants.

During the past six years, only one Dog n Suds Inc. restaurant offering the traditional and now nostalgic car hop has opened.

"NOW WE HAVE new types of outlets, new menus," Glenn Stello, senior vice president and director of operations of Dog n Sunds Inc. said. "Some of our restaurants seat 200 people and even serve

Flu shot plan called unworkable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's $135 million mass immunization plan to avert a swine flu epidemic is "no longer possible," one of the developers of the vaccines that virtually stamped out polio told Congress Monday.

Dr. Albert Sabin stepped up his criticism of the program by recommending that, except for high-risk persons, it be abandoned.

Sabin previously had recommended stockpiling the vaccine for use in the event further evidence of the flu is found beyond the New Jersey cases last winter, which precipitated Ford's proposal.

"It is evident that the original plan for mass vaccination of every man, woman and child in the U.S.A. as a means of preventing a potential epidemic of swine influenza virus disease is no longer possible," Sabin testified.

ON THE BASIS of vaccine trials, he said, it was discovered that most persons over age 52 would be protected against the disease without vaccination.

Proposed vaccination of the adult population that does respond well to the vaccines, without significant side effect, "canot be expected significantly to modify the dissemination of the swine influenza virus if it should reappear later in 1976," Sabin said.

He predicted that for every 1 million children receiving an effective dose, about 190,000 would become sick with such symptoms as fever, headache, muscle pains and nausea within about 24 hours after vaccination.

"We've been stampeded into passing this legislation because of fear of a pandemic," Rep. Henry A. Waxman, D-Calif., charged at the hearing.

"WE ARE NOT trying to railroad the American public or Congress into preventive medicine," replied Dr. Theodore Cooper, the government's top doctor and the man in over-all charge of the unprecedented public health effort.

Dr. Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., one of the few physicians in Congress, challenged both an administration proposal to indemnify vaccine manufacturers against certain claims resulting from immunizations and the administration's procedures for contracting with vaccine manufacturers.

He said vaccine manufacturers have not received such immunity from liability for past flu vaccination campaigns and questioned the government's "rather unusual way of purchasing the vaccine; without knowing in advance how much it will cost."

Fate of skyjack hostages still uncertain

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Negotiations between pro-Palestinian extremists and Ugandan officials ran into a deadlock Monday and the fate of their 260 or more hostages from a hijacked Air France plane remained uncertain.

During the talks, passengers and crew were allowed to leave the plane and take refuge from the searing tropical sun in the airport lounge at Entebbe. But several of the armed hijackers still held them at gunpoint under death threat.

After nearly 14 hours of negotiating, French ambassador Pierre Renard left Uganda's Entebbe airport, where the plane landed Sunday night, and returned to the Ugandan capital in Kampala 20 miles away.

Renard declined to speak with newsmen but a spokesman at the French embassy in Kampala told UPI by telephone that the talks between the ambassador and the hijackers had come to a standstill.

"We still don't now what demands the hijackers are making," the spokesman said. "Until we know what they want there is little more we can do."

The spokesman told UPI that Renard would probably remain in telephone contact with Entebbe throughout the night and that he would "probably" return to the airport early Tuesday morning.

Officials in Kampala and Paris said Uganda authorities were negotiating with the "four or five" hijackers. No hijackers demands were made public but the Marxist popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine announced they were "declaring war on France" when they seized the Air France jet Sunday.

Radio Uganda broadcast a warning earlier from the hijackers that they would blow up the plane and everyone on it if Uganda security troops got closer than 50 yards from the plane. But they apparently relented long enough to let the passengers out of the unbearable heat of the plane.

The exact number of hostages was not known. There were 12 crewmen and 258 passengers — including an unknown number of hijackers — aboard the European-made 300 Airbus twinjet. An ailing British woman was permitted to debark in Benghazi and return to London.

Uganda President Idi Amin rushed to the scene when the plane arrived at Entebbe and took part in the early negotiations with the hijackers along with the French Ambassador and other officials.

Passengers aboard the Air France reportedly included nine Americans and at least 86 Israelis.

French foreign ministry spokesmen in Paris said negotiations opened at midday between Uganda officials and the hijackers, "four or five men speaking both Spanish and Arabic" who seized the plane after a scheduled stop at Athens en route to Paris from Tel Aviv.

The French Foreign Ministry stressed that the hostages "have not been liberated. They went into the terminal to get out of the hot plane."

Uganda radio said the hijackers issued a statement saying "The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine seized the plane to declare war on France."

Chicago couple aboard jet

A Chicago couple was aboard the Air France flight hijacked by Palestinian guerillas Sunday and forced to fly to Entebbe, Uganda, relatives said.

Joe Shalin of suburban Skokie said Constantine Theodoropoulos and his pregnant wife, Phyllis, were aboard the plane. He said an Air France official confirmed that a party of two under the name Theodoropoulos was on the plane's passenger manifest but refused to say whether they had boarded.

HOWEVER, SHALIN, Mrs. Theodoropoulos' brother-in-law, said relatives of the couple in Tripolis, Greece, confirmed that they had boarded the plane in Athens Sunday morning.

Shalin said the Theodoropouloses, both hairdressers, planned to spend a week in Paris to attend a hairstylists' school and were to return to Chicago next week. He said Mrs. Theodoropoulos is six months pregnant.

Yank, 3 Britons face death by Angola firing squad

LUANDA, Angola (UPI) — An Angolan revolutionary peoples tribunal sentenced American Vietnam war veteran Daniel Gearhart and three Britons to death by firing squad Monday for selling themselves like "mercenary prostitutes" in the Angolan civil war.

Nine other American and British mercenaries were given prison sentences ranging from 16 to 30 years.

Chief Judge Ernesto da Silva, in announcing the verdict, said the United States and Britain shared the guilt of the convicted men.

Da Silva called the 13 mercenaries "dogs of war with bloodstained muzzles that left a trail of rape, murder and pillage across the face of our nation." But he said he recognized the varying degrees of guilt among them.

The balding Gearhart, of Kensington, Md., who said he never fired a shot during the civil war, was the only one of the three American defendants sentenced to death.

Gary Acker, 21, of Sacramento, Calif., was stentenced to 16 years and Argentine-American Gustavo Grillo of Jersey City, N.J., drew 30 years.

The death list was led off by "Col. Tony Callan," the mercenary leader who ordered the massacre of 14 British mercenaries who demanded to go home. Andrew MacKenzie, who helped carry out the order, also was sentenced to die. A third Briton, John Barker, received the maximum penalty because he commanded troops.

The other Britons drew sentences of from 16 to 30 years.

The three Americans and 10 Britons listened to the harsh judgment in shocked silence as movie cameras recorded the event. The faces of some collapsed in dismay. Others stared stonily ahead.

At the end of the dramatic sentencing session, the British and American defense attorneys rushed off to draw up quick appeals for mercy from President Agostino Neto. One said there was a possibility that the four condemned men could be shot by a firing squad within 48 hours unless Neto acts.

Gearhart, who was captured three days after his arrival from the United States, was condemned to death for having run an advertisement offering himself as a mercenary.

The judge told the haunted looking men standing before him that the United States and the British government were equally guilty for the recruitment of mercenaries to Angola.

He said the CIA used an organization in Britain as a front to recruit mercenaries and that neither government did anything to prevent the recruitment of the soldiers of fortune and their departure for Africa.

"The FBI had full knowledge of this traffic in military prostitutes and did nothing about it," he said.

In giving the verdict, da Silva noted that "packs of the dogs of war" have been hounding African nations for the past 20 years and that harsh penalties were needed to halt this practice.

"They spread fear, shame and hate in Angola," he said. "It was an orgy of contempt."

Senate OKs withholding extension

The Senate, its tax revision bill bogged down, voted Monday to extend current lower income tax withholding rates to Sept. 1. The extension was attached to a minor House-passed bill. If the House approves the amended measure before current tax cuts expire July 1 as expected, the American taxpayer will be spared an increase of several dollars a week in extra tax payments. Senate Finance Committee Chairman Russell Long, D-La., proposed the extension after it became obvious the Senate could not complete its massive tax revision bill before Congress goes home for the July 4 holiday.

Marine innocent in pugil stick death

A Marine drill instructor charged with involuntary manslaughter in the death of a young Texas recruit was acquitted of all charges Monday night by an eight-member courtmartial board. S.Sgt. Harold Bronson, 30, Freeport, Fla., said he almost felt like fainting when he heard the verdict. The board had deliberated a little more than three hours. The board agreed with the defense that Bronson was only following orders in trying to get Pvt. Lynn McClure, 20, Lufkin, Tex., to show motivation in a series of pugil-stick bouts at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot.

Court rules on school racial zones

The Supreme Court ruled Monday that federal courts may not continue rearranging school attendance zones thrown out of racial balance by "white flight" unless the flight resulted directly from a desegregation order. Justice William H. Rehnquist said in the majority opinion that once mixed-race attendance zones were established, they did not have to be changed after whites fled to the suburbs and some zones once again became predominantly black.

Concorde survives ban efforts

The British-French supersonic flights to the United States survived three separate efforts Monday aimed at banning them on noise pollution grounds. After nearly eight hours of work on the measure, the House approved by a 376-21 vote and sent to the Senate an appropriation bill containing nearly $5.29 billion for the Transportation Department and other agencies through Oct. 1, 1977.

Identify American killed in train crash

Belgian officials Monday identified the body of Laura Cruze, 24, of Morris, Minn. as one of the 10 persons killed when the Amsterdam-Paris express train jumped the tracks in Belgium Sunday. Miss Cruze and her traveling companion, Carolynn King, of Greensboro, N.C. were aboard the 12-car express when its last five carriages were derailed at the station of this sleepy little village 20 miles southwest of Brussels. All the other victims were Dutch holiday makers on a group tour.

'No apology' for Viking's Mars delay

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Viking project manager Jim Martin said Monday he had "no apology" for delaying the July 4 Bicentennial landing of the instrument packed lander, explaining that Columbus "didn't rush into the first beach he found."

Viking 1 pictures of the far northwest corner of the primary landing site on Mars showed a plain apparently so windswept that ground hazards may be obscured, Jet Propulsion Laboratory scientits said.

More pictures of the area, called Phonecia, were scheduled for Tuesday and the decision on whether to consider it as a landing site or go to the A-2 site on the other side of Mars will be made July 1.

"This mission is exploration," Martin said. "No one has ever landed on Mars. If one sets out as Columbus did to find a new world he didn't rush into the first beach he found. He probably looked around for a safe harbor.

"I have no apology for looking for a safe place to land."

Dr. Michael Carr, a landing site team geologist, said pictures of the Phonecia area indicate that surface material could be blown around obscuring the actual features of the site.

Viking photographs show the first choice landing site, Chryse, appears too hazardous for a safe Viking landing, but Martin said if nothing else appears safer, the landing team may return to it.

Fighting may expand Lebanon war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Reinforced Christian forces backed by tanks and artillery attacked two besieged Palestinian camps in waves Monday and said they were on the verge of capturing them. They demanded the unconditional surrender of the defenders.

Palestinian guerrillas said they had repulsed the seven-day-old offensive but already the Christian offensive was theatening to expand the scope of the war.

Syria poured more troops into northern Lebanon and the Arab League asked for Saudi Arabian and Sudanese reinforcements for a peace keeping team.

Palestinian guerrillas said they threw back the Christian offensive, now in its 7th day, after one of the fiercest battles of the 15-month civil war. "Our heroic fighters inflicted heavy losses" on the right-wing forces, a Palestinian radio station said.

The radio said Lt. Ahmed Khatib, commander of the leftist "Lebanese Arab Army," met Monday with Libyan Premier Abdel Salam Jalloud, architect of a supposed ceasefire, to complain that Damascus, instead of withdrawing its troops, was sending in reinforcements.

The radio said the Syrians sent an armored brigade of about 2,000 troops into Lebanon Monday and reported it took up positions at the town of Irsal, in the northeast of the country some 50 miles north of Beirut.

The radio said Syrian troops in the eastern Bekaa Valley shelled the town of Hermel, damaging most of its buildings and causing several casualties.

Arab League Secretary General Mahmoud Riad warned in Cairo that the Christian assault on two Palestinian camps could lead to grave consequences and ordered two Saudi Arabian and Sudanese contingents to cross into Lebanon from Syria to bolster Arab League peacekeeping forces.

"If the current offensive against the Tal Zaatar and Jisr Al Pasha camps leads to their occupation, this will cause a very grave deterioration in the situation as well as expansion of the fighting," Riad said.

Jalloud appealed for Syrian pressure on Christian rightists besieging the two camps and warned that their fall could send peace moves to end the Lebanese crisis back to square one.

Former Interior Minister Camille Chamoun demanded a committee from the International Red Cross inspect the two camps and determine whether they were really refugee camps or military arsenals.

"The issue is not one of refugee camps, but of a group of people armed to the teeth with all types of heavy and light weapons entrenched in concrete fortifications," Chamoun said.

Ford-Reagan battle raises morale query

by United Press International

While the two Republican presidential contenders were raising the possibility of demolished party morale, Democrat Jimmy Carter Monday went on another fund raising trip to pay off the rest of his primary campaign debts.

With no GOP delegates at stake this coming holiday weekend, the battle between President Ford and Ronald Reagan, both of whom did no campaigning Monday, turned rhetorical, — each side in effect accusing the other side of not really wanting to win the fall election.

Reagan, in an interview aboard his plane, said Ford's campaign tactics, particularly trying to get rules changes in primaries and state conventions, raises the risk he will win the nomination only to face a campaign against Carter without support of the conservative Reagan backers.

"This has been a concern of mine," Reagan said. "This is one of the reasons why as I say, they are playing with fire . . . and the result could be very hurtful."

Complaining about the Ford campaign's backstage maneuvering at a time when the President is calling for party unity, Reagan said, "Well, sometimes I think he'd rather win a convention than win an election."

That echoed the remark made Sunday by Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., a long time friend and supporter of Ford, who said, "Some of the people who follow Ronald Reagan are so doctrinaire in their approach to politics that literally they don't very much care whether they win or lose an election."

The UPI delegate count showed Ford with 1,064 of the 1,130 delegates needed to win the nomination and Reagan with 994. Another 103 are listed as uncommitted and 98 remain to be chosen.

The figures are fluid, however, including delegates who say they are "leaning" toward one or the other candidate, and shifts back and forth are reported almost daily.

Republican delegate selection occurs next the weekend of July 10-11 with 18 delegates chosen in North Dakota and 25 in Colorado followed the weekend of July 17-18 with selection of 20 delegates in Utah and 35 in Connecticut.

Ford and Reagan are expected to split in North Dakota, with Ford counting on most if not all in Connecticut and Reagan hoping for sweeps in Colorado and Utah.

If that occurs, all 2,259 delegates will have been chosen and neither man will have a majority, although the President would be fewer than 25 away and Reagan 82.

Compensation law wins OK of Senate

The Illinois Senate, after approving House changes, Monday sent the governor a bill designed to tighten up benefits in a workmen's compensation law passed last year. The measure has been attacked by Republicans since it was drafted by Democratic members of the Senate Labor and Commerce Committee.

As sent to the governor, the bill would:

- Reduce death or permanent total disability benefits from an unlimited amount to a maximum of $10,660.
- Exempt more family farms from workmen's coverage and extend the exemption of domestic help for another two years until 1980.
- Allow only ailments peculiar to the worker's occupation and aggravated by the job to qualify the worker for benefits.

Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, Senate leader in an unsuccessful Republican-backed move to further narrow benefits, called the bill a cosmetic package "that is being shoved down our throats by the AFL-CIO. This is a poor excuse for what we should have had," Graham said.

Chicken manure fine upheld

The state acted properly in levying a $3,000 fine against a firm which permitted "chicken manure odor and the even more permeating odor of burning chickens and feathers" to pollute the air, the Illinois Supreme Court ruled Monday. The decision upheld a fine imposed by the Pollution Control Board on the National Mellody Farm Fresh Egg Co., which operates an egg-production facility near Libertyville. The total chicken population at the facility, the court noted, ranges between 296,000 and 330,000 birds and daily production is between 160,000 and 170,000 grade "AA" eggs. Most of the output is sold to the National Tea Co.

Testimony presented at hearings on the complaint showed, the court said, that "the odors emanating from the egg farm had interfered with the public's enjoyment of life and property in an area extending more than a mile beyond the boundaries of the farm."

Convicted lawmaker votes

State Rep. Robert Craig, convicted last week for his part in a bribery scheme, showed up Monday in the House and was recorded as voting. Craig, D-Danville, said his lawyers advised him to keep his seat "until sentencing." He refused further comment except when asked if his presence is embarrasing to the House. "Not to me," snapped Craig, who stared at reporters.

Craig plans to appeal his conviction on one count of conspiracy, 11 of mail fraud and two of bribery. Chuck Anderson, clerk to U.S. District Court Judge George N. Leighton, who presided at the so-called "cement trial," said Monday, "A formal judgment was entered against Craig Friday."

Plant blast ignites blaze, injures 3

An explosion rocked the Zenith Products Co. on Chicago's West Side Monday, spreading fire throughout the plant and injuring at least three persons, one critically. The cause of the explosion and fire, which resulted in about $100,000 damage, was not immediately known, fire department officials said. They theorized it might have been caused by a workman driving a forklift truck into a 50-gallon chemical drum.

A plant employe, Jose Avila, 28, Chicago, suffered burns over 80 per cent of his body and was listed in critical condition, a Loyola Hospital spokesman said. Avila's wife, Esengenia, 26, who is nine months pregnant and was visiting him at the time of the explosion, was treated at the hospital for burns on her feet. Another employe, George Plovanich, 28, Brookfield, was listed in serious condition with burns covering 60 per cent of his face.

July 4 death estimate released

Traffic accidents could kill between 530 and 630 persons during the July 4 holiday weekend, the National Safety Council estimated Monday. The council said increased travel and greater speeds may up the total for the 78-hour holiday period from the 508 who died during the July 4 holiday last year. During the holiday period, from 6 p.m. Friday, July 2, to midnight Monday, July 5, the council estimated that 25,000 to 30,00 persons could suffer disabling injuries.

The executive board of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America has endorsed the candidacy of Democratic presidential hopeful Jimmy Carter, union president William Sidell announced Monday. Sidell said 13 of the 15 board members had met with Carter earlier and they voted unanimously during the union's midwest regional conference to endorse him in his race.

Newland says of RTA budget

'Pikarsky ignored board input'

by LYNN ASINOF

A board member of the Regional Transportation Authority Monday roundly criticized Chairman Milton Pikarsky for ignoring the RTA board in preparing his budget recommendations.

Pikarsky's recommendations, released Monday, called for an 11 per cent cut in RTA funding to carriers instead of the fare increases recommended by RTA board members last week. Without budget cuts or fare increases, the RTA faces a $37.6 million deficit.

"It's totally insulting because of the directors that spoke, seven out of the nine directors said increase fares," said director Richard Newland of Waukegan.

Newland said the recommendations "make it less and less likely that any budget will be passed under Pikarsky's regime."

THE $178.2 MILLION budget is scheduled for a vote Wednesday, but suburban directors say they will block budget approval unless Pikarsky resigns. They have accused the chairman of mismanaging the six-county agency and say they are willing to brave a transportation crisis to force his ouster.

In his recommendations, Pikarsky said the 10 per cent region-wide fare hike backed by several board members would be "counter productive." He said it would reduce the number of riders and have a serious impact on the poor, elderly and young.

"Therefore a fare increase should be avoided if at all possible and as long as possible," Pikarsky said.

Pikarsky has recommended the Chicago Transit Authority funding be cut $16.2 million from $127.9 million to $111.6 million. Suburban bus carriers would have their funding reduced from $9.2 million to $8.2 million.

WHILE THESE CUTS would amount to 11 per cent of the RTA funding, Pikarsky said they would only amount to 5 per cent of total operating costs.

"Budgets of carriers indicate that they may be able to absorb relatively small reductions in expenses without having to curtail essential levels of service," Pikarsky said.

Suburban bus operators, however, last week testified that they are operating on "bare bones budgets," and will have to make serious cuts in service to cut expenses by 5 per cent.

The suburban directors have opposed cuts in funding to the bus operators, saying suburban service already is at a minimum.

Pikarsky also called for a 25 per cent cut in new transit programs and deferment of debt repayment to eliminate the deficit.

The RTA board met in closed door session Monday to discuss the controversy over Pikarsky's continued chairmanship of the agency. Newland said no progress was made during the 1½-hour meeting.

Patronage system gets jolt

A ruling handed down Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court said patronage employes in nonpolicy making positions may not be fired solely because a new political party takes office.

The ruling was a result of a suit filed against Cook County Sheriff Richard J. Elrod.

Elrod has refused to comment on the ruling until he obtains a copy and has had a chance to read it.

In a 5-to-3 decision, the high court said the employe in a nonpolicy making position cannot be fired even if he is not a civil service employe because of his political affiliations. The dissenting justices, including Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, said the ruling effectively destroys the patronage system.

Burger, Lewis Powell and William H. Rehnquist said patronage should be decided at the legislative level rather than in the courts. Justice John Paul Stevens did not participate in the decision.

THE SUIT WAS filed by four employes of the sheriff's office shortly after Elrod took office in 1970 when they refused to seek Democratic sponsors. The four, Joseph Dennard, John Burns, Frank Vargas and Fred Buckley, all deputy sheriffs, were Republicans.

The suit alleged the firings violated their civil rights to free political association.

The United States District Court dismissed the suit, but the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the ruling.

Writing for the majority opinion, Justice William J. Brennan, supported by Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall, said patronage firings "severely restrict political belief and association" that constitute "the core" of the principles guaranteed under the First Amendment.

Brennan said Cook County had failed to show any interest of "vital importance" was maintained by the patronage system and that there was insufficient evidence patronage employes of one administration were more efficient than another.

JUSTICES Harry A. Blackmun and Potter Stewart, while concurring with the decision, said they did not consider the patronage system unconstitutional, but did consider the dismissal of non-policy making employes for political beliefs a violation of rights.

members to Lancer's (a restaurant in Schaumburg) for their business meetings," Pearson said. Meetings are normally held at Harper College and meetings held at the restaurant were not publicly announced.

Pearson also said when he was a safety employe, between June 1974 and September 1975, he delivered papers to Lahti's home.

"I remember once driving some papers over there that he forgot after leaving the college," Pearson said.

Other public safety employes, who asked to not be identified, confirmed Pearson's report and cited other instances.

Public safety squad cars were used to deliver an envelope to Lahti's house on a Saturday and to drive him to meetings at the Bank of Elk Grove, a former employe said. Safety employes also drove board members and administrators to "secret meetings at Lancer's and they sat there while Lahti and the board ate," another employe said.

A REQUEST WAS ALSO made for a member of the safety department to assist board member Judith Troehler whn her auto's radiator boiled over at Harper.

"I drove her to her car and followed her home from Harper to Mount Prospect. I was the only one on duty that night," said the employe who asked to be unidentified.

The public safety department at Harper has two squad cars and one three-wheel vehicle. There are eight sworn officers and 16 cadets involved in the 24-hour operation of the department, said supervisor Gordon Wallace.

Wallace said requests for escorts are normally handled by the college's transportation department, but public safety "ends up with a lot of those things." The transportation department has two vehicles assigned to the motor pool and one regular driver, said Hughes, director of physical plant.

Wallace said because the transportation department only has one driver the safety department will send cadets as escorts, on "mail runs or board runs."

"We do it as an accommodation. We take members of the administration or trustees to the airport, but only the upper echelon," Wallace said. He said "if a board member works downtown we would pick him up at the train station and bring him here for board meetings."

"OUR TRUSTEES SERVE without pay, so we accommodate them," Wallace said.

Hughes, who oversees the use of college vehicles, said there are occasions when a squad car is used to pick up a board member or administrator at the airport. "We don't like to do it, but when no other vehicles are available we use squad cars," Hughes said.

Hughes said college cars also are used to drive officials to the airport because it is less expensive to use the college vehicle than reimbursing officials for the expense of using their own car.

"We will send an executive vehicle to Dr. Lahti's house to drive him to the airport. It's cheaper than him driving it and tying it up at the airport and spending $10 a day on parking," Hughes said.

LAHTI, WHO IS PAID $44,000 annually, receives his own automobile as a fringe benefit and the college covers its costs.

Board Chairman Shirley Munson said public safety vehicles have been used to pick up board members who work in downtown Chicago at the train station, but "it has been strictly having to do with board business."

Mrs. Munson said sometimes some board members were taken somewhere to eat before negotiation sessions if they had not had time for a meal.

Trustee Judith Troehler said, "I've been picked up at the airport or at the train station" for Harper meetings "when I could not get there any other way." She also said, "I've been driven home by security when I didn't have any other form of transportation," and she and Trustee Robert Rausch have been picked up at the train station "because our cars were not in Palatine."

Felice Avila, his secretary, said she did not know of any requests made to the public safety department to transport Lahti or his family on personal business.

"I don't make requests to public safety," Mrs. Avila said. "We go through the proper channels. All the requests go through Mr. Hughes when we have errands and when there are materials to go to the board."

When asked if she sent a memo to public safety asking officers to pick up Lahti's son, Mrs. Avila said, "I don't recall that."

Dist. 21 wrapup

Lane resigns post on board after 5 years

Jack Lane

Jack Lane has resigned as a member of the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education.

Lane, 3112 N. Volz Dr., Arlington Heights, served on the board for five years. In a letter to the board last week, he said he was resigning because he is moving out of the district.

The board must appoint someone within 30 days to fill Lane's position. Board Pres. Susan Rose said the board has not decided on the procedure it will use for selection of a new member.

Six more teachers rehired

The board rehired an additional six of the 60 nontenured teachers dismissed in March.

Since May, 15 teachers have been reinstated. The teachers originally were dismissed when the board eliminated 50 teaching positions to help reduce a projected $1 million deficit in the 1976-77 budget.

The teachers were rehired to fill positions opened by resignations, transfers and retirements, said Larry Weaver, assistant superintendent for administration. Weaver said he knows of eight other cases in which resignations are pending.

Rehired teachers include Susan Chelini, London; Kathryn Switzer, Tarkington; John Patti, Twain; Karen Crisler, Riley; Floyd Clements Riley; Mary Ann Rushkewicz, speech; Virginia Weber, London; John Witucke, physical education; James Gibson, music; Martha Scherpeltz, Alcott; and Maureen Udstuen, Frost.

Also Susan Kropp, Poe; Pam Pellican, Cooper, Stephanie Moskowtitx, Stevenson; and John Lodolce, Hawthorne and reading.

New principals at 2 schools

New principals have been appointed for Whitman and Stevenson schools.

Richard Klaslo, principal at Stevenson School, 1375 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, was transferred to Whitman School, 133 S. Wille Ave., Wheeling. Klaslo will replace David Burgdorf, who resigned because he is moving to California.

Virginia Sonntag, currently assistant to the principal at Stevenson, will become the new principal at that school.

Absence-leave policy OKd

A general leave-of-absence policy replacing the district's maternity leave policy has been approved.

The policy states that a leave may not exceed the balance of the school year in which it begins and one additional school year. The leaves of absence will be without salary or other fringe benefits, according to the guidelines.

$16 million Dist. 59 budget studied

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education Monday reviewed a $16 million tentative budget for the 1976-77 school year, a 2.93 per cent increase over last year's $15.6 million budget.

The district expects to receive about $15 million in revenue from property taxes, state aid and other sources compared to last year's $14 million, a 5.93 per cent increase.

Although the tentative budget projects a $950,671 deficit, the district will have $451,013 in surplus funds from the 1975-76 school year.

THE DISTRICT also anticipates borrowing $7 million from the working cash fund for the education fund.

Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent of finances, said, "It appears we'll be able to do the borrowing necessary in the education fund without going to (tax anticipation) warrants."

Over-all, the district anticipates having about a $1.9 million surplus at the end of the 1976-77 school year in the five funds recorded in the tentative budget.

The education fund, the largest budgetary fund, shows anticipated expenditures of $11.18 million, a 1.59 per cent increase over last year's $11 million.

THE EDUCATION fund reflects cuts totaling $978,969 from last year's budget. However, fixed expenses such as medical insurance, special education, tuition and utilities increased expenditures in that fund by $538,609. The net reduction in the education fund is $440,360.

All salary figures in the tentative budget are set at the 1975-76 level. Salaries make up about 75 per cent of the education fund budget.

The budget does not reflect administrators' salary increases that average 6 ptr cent for the 1976-77 school year. Teachers' salaries also do not reflect the automatic raise teachers receive for an additional year's service nor an estimate of the negotiated salary for this fall. Teachers and custodians salaries currently are under negotiation for the 1976-77 school year.

The building fund shows a 4.85 per cent increase from the $1.3 million budgeted last year to $1.36 million for the 1976-77 school year.

THE BUDGET also includes:

Bond and Interest fund, $2.48 million compared to $2.26 million last year.

Transportation fund, $727,832 compared to $739,258 last year, a 1.54 per cent decrease.

Insurance fund, $59,189 compared to $41,682 last year, an increase of 43 per cent.

Retirement fund, $269,000 compared to $276,250 last year.

The budget also includes an increase of $54,500 for the working cash fund bringing the total available for loan to the education and building fund from within the district to $5.8 million.

Buckholtz to head police until replacement found

Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood will step down from his position Thursday and Deputy Chief Paul Buckholz will assume command until a permanent replacement is named.

Calderwood's departure comes a month before his official retirement July 30, the 48th anniversary of his entering law enforcement.

Buckholz was named to fill in temporarily by Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

BUCKHOLZ, WHO has applied for the job on a permanent basis, said his role primarily will be that of a caretaker.

Although Buckholz will be acting police chief, Hanson said the post would not give him an advantage in consideration by the special five-member selection committee.

About 60 persons have applied for Calderwood's post, said Gregory Ford, village personnel director.

Hanson said the selection committee, composed of the three-member village fire and police commission, Winnetka Police Chief Don R. Derning and James M. Slavin, director of the Northwestern University Traffic Institute, still is reviewing applications.

Although the committee has yet to interview any candidates, Hanson said a full-time chief will be named by tht July 30 deadline.

Calderwood, who became chief in Arlington Heights in 1958 after serving since 1928 on the Evanston Police Dept., will be honored at a retirement dinner July 18 at the Arlington Park Hilton.

Flooding panel to discuss drain woes at water basin

Drainage problems at the Wilke-Kirchoff water retention basin will be discussed tonight by the Arlington Heights Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding.

Soggy conditions have hampered the use of the basin for recreational activities, according to park district officials.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the municipal building 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The committee also will review design outlines for proposed improvements to McDonald Creek, Trustee Frank Palmatier said.

Palmatier said a recreation plan for the village landfill site will not be studied by the committee until next month.

Tentative plans for the 57-acre landfill at Nichols and Schaefer roads call for the site to have a winter sports hill, a small lake, picnic areas, bicycle and footpaths and a skeet and trap shooting range.

Race track worker hurt in pipe attack

Two men used a lead pipe to beat an Arlington Park Race Track employe unconscious in an apparent robbery attempt Sunday night, police reported.

The two attackers jumped Walter Scienski, 27, in the washroom of Scienski's dormitory at the race track at 8:30 p.m. Sunday and used a lead pipe to strike the victim on his face and head, police said.

Scienski told police he remembered the pair was rifling his pockets just before he blacked out, police said. Sci enski reportedly was carrying no valuables at the time of the attack.

Scienski reportedly regained consciousness 15 minutes after the attack, and stumbled back to his room. He blacked out, and did not notify police of the attack until 10:45 a.m. Monday, police said.

Scienski was transported by Arlington Heights firefighters to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where he reportedly was treated and released for head and facial injuries.

Youth, 8, passes sign, struck by car

An 8-year-old Arlington Heights boy suffered cuts and a possible concussion Sunday night after he rode his bicycle past a stop sign and into the path of a car, police reported.

Police said Jeffrey T. Klein, 1003 N. Kennicott Ave. failed to stop for a stop sign and was struck by a car driven by James L. Cox Jr., 17, of 415 W. Elm St., Arlington Heights.

Police did not ticket Cox. Klein was taken to Northwest Community Hospital by village firefighters, where he was reported in good condition in the hospital pediatrics section Monday night.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dairyman missing facts on lactose

I thought you might be interested in the article in Hoard's Dairyman concerning your remarks about milk intolerance.

Thank you for your courtesy in sending me that article. Dr. M. J. Brink (not a physician) did write to me. Although I have reason to believe Hoard's Dairyman knew of my reply to Brink, my remarks were not included in the article. So you got a biased report.

Brink identified himself as being with the National Dairy Council. As indicated in the article he claimed that the lactose intolerance data was not applicable because the studies were done with lactose sugar and water in amounts approximately equal to what you find in a quart of milk.

I replied that Brink should read the article in the New England Journal of Medicine, May 29, 1975, of the work by doctors at Johns Hopkins Medical Center, so he could get up to date on the problem. The Johns Hopkins doctors did their study on patients' response to only one glass of actual milk, not the test Brink alluded to.

I pointed out to Brink that the Johns Hopkins doctors found that "two hundred and forty milliliters (one glass) of low-fat milk produced gaseousness or cramps in 59 per cent of 44 lactose intolerant men and 68 per cent were symptomatic with an equivalent amount of lactose." And, "Refusal to drink 240 ml of low-fat milk served with meals correlated significantly with lactose-intolerance." Note here that people with lactose intolerance simply don't use dairy products and that market is lost to the dairy farmer.

The John Hopkins study proves that many people cannot tolerate, and will not drink, a single glass of milk a day because of lactose intolerance. I hope that Brink does not think that a single glass of milk for those who can tolerate it meets the daily calcium needs. I told Brink that inadequate calcium intake was the most common nutritional deficiency in the United States. The Recommended Daily Allowance established by the National Academy of Sciences, for adults, is between 800 and 1200 milligrams and a single glass contains only 288 milligrams. If I were a dairy farmer, I'd want people to be able to drink a quart a day, not just a glass.

If people limited their intake of milk and milk products to the equivalent of one glass of milk a day it would really hurt the dairy farmer and cause widespread nutritional problems.

Brink also suggested that I tell my readers to eat yogurt as a low lactose product for calcium intake. I was astonished. Commercial yogurt is not the same as homemade yogurt. Commercial yogurt kills off the lactobacillus early in the process and the product is so thin that it is usually thickened with non-fat dry milk powder. The result is that commercial yogurt is one of the highest sources of lactose available and would be very bad for people with lactose intolerance. Yogurt's high lactose content is the reason it came under suspicion as a cause of cataracts.

I believe the dairy famers have a right to insist that the Dairy Council get wholeheartedly behind the efforts to produce and market a low-lactose product that all can use. Fortunately other segments of the Dairy Council have taken the lead in developing Lact-Aid which is now available in some parts of the United States and Canada. I trust these remarks will give you a more balanced view than the one-sided article appearing in Hoard's Dairyman.

Replacing camper beds may be best solution

Dear Dorothy: The foam rubber beds in our camper became mildewed over the winter. Is there any way to remove the dreadful odor? —Mrs. Plant

If it's actually form rubber, the beds can't be the cause of the mildew. Foam rubber — and its successor in popularity, urethane foam — is impervious to mildew and to germs. The fault might be in the cover material. If it's broken down, you have no option but to replace it. If it's still serviceable, maybe sponging with a baking soda solution might neutralize the odor. Or you can sprinkle on the granules used to line kitten boxes and leave it for about two weeks until the odor is absorbed. The urethane foam is lighter and less costly than foam rubber and it may be a lot simpler to just replace both bed pads and covers.

Dear Dorothy: Please pass along to readers what a carpet expert told me to do about removing candle wax from deep pile carpets. Take a wet (not dripping) cloth or medium-weight towel, place over the wax and leave a medium-hot iron on it for about seven seconds and repeat as often as necessary. The steam floats the wax up into the cloth. Miraculous! —S. Pennington

Donna Hartley

Club work family tradition

BETWEEN CARING for her family and her duties as new president of 7th District IFWC, Donna Hartley finds her needlepoint is the only hobby she can squeeze into her super busy schedule. In background is an oil portrait of her son, Mark, who hopes to be a professional baseball player. Son Dane is a recent college graduate.

To meet Mrs. Myron Hartley, new president of 7th District, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, it's hard to believe she likes nothing more than to hop on the back of her husband's motorcycle and go off with him for a weekend, or longer, vacation.

Though she enjoys a free-spirited interlude in the midst of her very crowded calendar, she does hold the highest office in the district and administers it with a dedicated purpose.

Installed in April this year, Donna has always been a leader during her 24 years of woman's club experience which began with the Arlington Heights Juniors.

Her husband and two grown sons, Dane and Mark, come first in Donna's heart, but a very close second is her devotion to the federated women's club organization and its programs. And that interest comes naturally.

DONNA'S MOTHER was at one time president of the 16th District in central Illinois and Myron's mother was a county president in the Indiana federation.

When the Hartleys moved to Mount Prospect, in 1950, this vivacious, energetic, capable woman soon joined the Arlington Heights Juniors. (Mount Prospect Juniors was formed eight years later). Not one to sit back and follow the leader, she took on various duties leading right to the presidency.

While her boys were young, Donna found the evening activities of the juniors best adapted to her family schedule. She sas home during the day with her sons. As the children grew, it was easier to get involved in daytime activities while they were in school.

IN JUNIORS DONNA served as district junior director, state projects chairman and from 1962-1964 was state junior director.

The family's move to Regency Park in Arlington Heights coincided with Donna joining the Arlington Heights Woman's Club of which she is still a member. Her activities since then have also included many local as well as district and state offices and chairmanships.

A woman of countless ideas and the know-how to put them into action, Donna instituted an on-going scholarship program while president of Arlington Juniors, and as community improvement chairman of the women's club, she organized the Country Store at the Arlington Heights Historical Society and other benefits for the society.

AS JUNIOR STATE Projects Chairman she instituted a project to benefit scholarships for teachers of exceptional children and developed counseling brochures for three state universities which are used by guidance counselors throughout the state.

At district level she was the second woman in the country to participate in a study tour of South America after which she instituted a Latin American student exchange program.

At state level she was convention chairman for the IFWC diamond jubilee with its 2500 delegates, and represented the state under Alliance for Progress, an international development.

AS DISTRICT president for the 1976-1978 term, Donna has chosen as her theme, "Concern, Consider, Action." While coordinating the 31 district clubs, which cover Irving Park to Inverness, Donna will visit each one during the year.

Donna has been home only two full days since she was installed April 13. Home over this past weekend from the international convention in Philadelphia of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, she is now in Springfield attending a state IFWC seminar.

Her husband, a partner in a loop public accounting firm, and hers sons (Dane just received his MBA from Indiana University, and Mark, who hopes to be a professional baseball player, finished his freshman year at Mesa Community College in Tempe, Ariz.) have always supported Donna in her club career. "They had the house spic and span for the weekend, but they admitted they had missed me," laughed Donna.

THE FAMILY SPENDS as much time togther as possible. Last summer Donna and Myron rode the cycle to the Tetons while Dane and Mark followed in the car. The four met late each day at designated spots after the boys played golf along the way waiting for their parents to catch up.

But catching up won't be easy for any daughters-in-law of dynamic Donna, who is already dreaming ahead to when her sons marry and their wives carry on the family tradition of club work.

Milwaukee invites all to Summerfest

Milwaukee is throwing a party Wednesday through July 11 and inviting everyone to join in the fun of the annual Summerfest celebration on the city's lakefront.

This year marks the 10th anniversary of the gala event that features top name entertainers, a circus, sports, carnival midway, water shows on Lake Michigan, a petting zoo, clowns, magicians, puppet shows and a theater in the children's park.

Patterned after Munich's Oktoberfest, Summerfest is the third largest civic festival in the nation. Last year between 500,000 and 800,000 persons attended the festival during the 11 day period. The 52 acre festival grounds are located on the lakefront in downtown Milwaukee just south of Clybourn Street and are open from noon to midnight.

Adult admission is $2.50 per day. Children's admission is 50 cents but children under age 12 are admitted free on weekdays before 5:30 p.m if accompanied by an adult. Tickets for performances on Summerfest's Main Stage start at $10.

PARKING LOTS are adjacent to the grounds for $1 per car and commercial lots also are nearby. A shuttlebus from downtown Milwaukee runs every 10 minutes until 11:30 p.m. Hotel and travel information is available from the Milwaukee Convention and Visitors Bureau, 414-273-3950.

Summerfest '76 offers a variety of activities suited to visitors of all ages and interests. Jazz, country, and ethnic music is featured along with comedy and variety routines.

If sports are your thing, you can test your skills in volleyball and tennis clinics or the Milwaukee Bucks basketball clinic. There's a water ski show, canoe race, bicycle race and sailing regatta.

And, of course, beer is what has made Milwaukee famous. There will be plenty of suds and food to be consumed on the festival grounds. The Americana Food Village is populated with a row of national fast food franchises, local brat and beer stands, ice cream and submarine sandwich shops, all at family prices. Ethnic dishes also are served in other locations on the grounds.

VISITORS SHOULD have no trouble keeping the kids entertained. In the children's area a circus performs daily along with a puppet theater and a petting zoo. Wandering animals like Oliver Owl and Geri Giraffe will be there to amuse the small fry and there's a playground with plenty of equipment for kids to climb. A magic show and children's participation theater also are featured.

Every festival has a midway and Summerfest '76 will feature 35 major amusements, 20 shows, and 90 games daily. Visitors may see Summerfest from a chairlift spanning the length of the festival grounds.

The "Phil Donahue Show" will be televised from Summerfest from July 5 to 9 from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. "Dialing for Dollars" also will be broadcast each weekday at 11:30 a.m. Gates open at 11 a.m. for those wanting to be in the television audience.

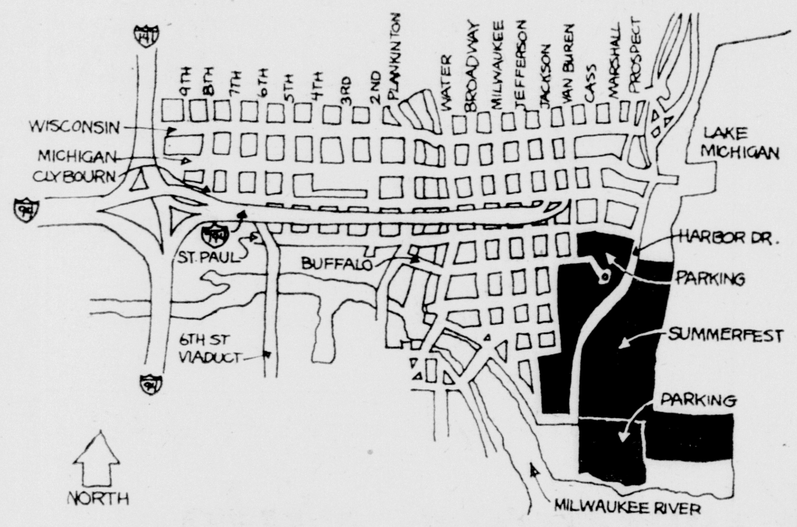
Other related Summerfest activities include a fireworks display by the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. on July 4 and the Miller High Life stock car race July 11 at 2:30 p.m. at State Fair Park.

The lakefront festival began in 1967 on an abandoned airport site in downtown Milwaukee to draw world attention to the products of the city's business and industry and to focus upon the community's many strong ethnic neighborhoods.

IN ITS EARLY years the festival earned a somewhat tainted reputation. The most remembered short-run performance in Summerfest II featured a group of Indian maidens who attracted publicity and the local vice squad by performing bare breasted to depict what was described as "an authentic religious ceremony" of their ancestors. The vice squad was back in 1972 to nab comedian George Carlin when he unveiled his "Milwaukee Seven" — words he said were not to be used on television. As it turned out they were not to be used on the Milwaukee stage either.

Summerfest has overcome such mischief and now is prospering.

Summerfest first was conceived by Milwaukee's singing mayor, baritone Henry W. Maier. The city's breweries each year have competed for recognition during Summerfest by attempting to have the mayor perform on their stage on opening day. In addition to such songs as "Ein Prosit," "Du, Du Liegst Mir Im Herzen," and "Havah Nagilah," the mayor's repertoire includes "Summerfest Polka" which he wrote and recorded.



Everything from jazz to country music featured

Jazz, rock, ethnic, folk and country music are featured daily during Summerfest on the festival's Main Stage, Miller High Life Jazz Oasis, Schlitz Country Stage, Pabst International Festival, Comedy Showcase and Rock Stage.

The Main Stage features top entertainers nightly at 7:30 p.m. and at 3 p.m. on weekends and holidays. Seat engagements start at $10. Talent is subject to change. Entertainment, ticket and general information is available through the Summerfest Hotline 414-273-2699.

Acceptable ethical conduct is anything you don't get caught at, especially if others do it!

Good news...where is it to be found?

I was reading The Herald today, and not one article had something good in it. I don't think one newspaper in this county has something happy or good written in it. But I am aware of "The Reminder" the only paper with happy or good news in the same paper. But that paper only comes once a week. People are getting tired of reading about crimes, murders, rapes . . . How about some happy thoughts or doings?

Ask your Herald readers for a column for happy thoughts, your readers could write some happy thoughts, and send them to you, this will give your newspaper some variety, plus sharing thoughts with all your other readers.

So please print my letter and see the replies of your readers, at least give it a try.

Aren't you tired of printing all bad news in your newspaper?

Sue Wilkosz, 17
Buffalo Grove

(Dear Sue: Your suggestion that readers submit happy news is a good one. June 22 was a dreary day of conflict, crime and other bad news. But there was good news, too, for those who recognized it. For example, Page 1 had a story about a new trial bus service for Buffalo Grove, another about four suburban townships working together to develop a flu program and a third about a village move to save a landmark building. Inside there was thrilling news (for scientists) that water vapor exists in quantity on Mars. There was a feature story about a woman whose unusual pet — a monkey — is treated like one of the family. And another feature about two friendly Irish lasses who are visiting the area. A group of Explorer Scouts was launching a canoe trip to Canada; and the Illinois State Lottery was launching a new game. Seventeen Buffalo Grove residents were listed as receiving college degrees. On the Suburban Living pages there were the usual supply of wedding and engagement stories and birth announcements. Medically, there was good news about a painless new technique for doctors to examine the brain. Two pages of Travel stories told about the excitement and romance that vacation dreams are made of. The Business page had an item about McDonald's donating a home for families of kids under treatment at Children's Hospital, another about a doll house on display at Palatine National Bank, and a third about the grand opening of a new Arlington Federal Savings office — surely good news to the friends and directors of the firm. The Sports pages reported an end to the White Sox losing streak, the opening of practice for the Midwest All Star team and hundreds of names of boys' baseball players. Even the Editorial page, that traditional bastion of gloom, had room for a report that a threat to some national parklands had been averted, an editorial comment about a "healthy" grassroots election and a letter from a reader declaring renewed faith in America. Whew! Maybe it wasn't such a bad day after all. — The editor)

He, too, has golf rule problem

I am writing in regards to a letter written by a resident of the park district, Walter Presperin, concerning the golfing fees confusion. I have played at Mount Prospect for four years under this pass. I am now 17 and this rule directly affects me. This rule has been changed considerably since last year despite park district officials' claims to the contrary. Last year's rule was as follows:

Anyone 14 through 17 years may play with these restrictions:

Saturday, Sunday and Holidays until 3:30 p.m. Weekdays after 3:30 p.m. unless accompanied by a parent.

These restrictions are written on my pass receipt signed by a park district employe, and I understood the pass to be a legitimate contract when I received it. This constitutes breach of contract and ground for a suit against the park district by all people possessing this pass. Now see if Mr. Thomas Taylor will give you a straight answer instead of the noncommittal reply he gave Mr. Presperin.

Shea ruling emphasizes ethics amendment need

The Illinois General Assembly proved once again last week that it really is not ready to reform itself. The 153 state representatives who exonerated House Majority Leader Gerald Shea, D-Riverside of influence peddling charges proved it.

Some legislators, including State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, seemed to think that good came from the deliberations regarding the charges leveled against Shea by Schlickman.

They may think that because much of what goes on in the state Capitol had a numbing effect on reality. Generally, though, the only conclusion that can be reached is that the legislature is not ready to deal seriously with self-investigation of misconduct charges against one of its members.

The Shea scandal points up the need for a stringent code of conduct to be enacted in Illinois. Legislators have no business practicing law before regulatory commissions, state departments or agencies.

Some lawmakers will dispute this, but Shea's problem, which is not really unique, focuses on this issue.

Elected state officials must make an extra effort to demonstrate to the public they have no conflict of interest. Some lawmakers feel this makes them second class citizens, but in reality they are a special class of citizen entrusted to direct many important functions of state government.

Their time should be directed toward improving the state, not using their influence as elected state officials to dispose of problems for private clients.

Such legislation is long overdue. It will probably not be proposed this year, but if the Coalition for Political Honesty's three constitutional amendments for ethical reforms pass, lawmakers might finally get the message that the people are not satisfied.

Although the Shea investigation looks like a whitewash, it did produce rules for handling future misconduct complaints.

The question must be asked, however, whether legislators will be willing to raise new charges in the future given the overwhelming vote to dismiss the charges against Shea. They might not be willing to toughen their own ethics code, but then the voters can always do it for them in November.

NEW YORK, June 29 — A British fleet of more than 100 ships arrived from Halifax off Sandy Hook, bringing troops and the threat of renewed enemy activity against Washington's forces in New York City. New Jersey's provincial congress dispatched soldiers to New York and citizens were urged to remain alert and zealous in the days ahead.

Three faults in Kissinger rule

by NEA/London Economist News Service

Three-quarters of the abuse that is now flying about Henry Kissinger's ears is unjustified and undeserved. The starting point of Kissinger's policy towards the Soviet Union is entirely sensible. The Russians have now moved into the superpower stage of Soviet history, and there is very little the United States could have done to prevent that happening; so the aim of American policy is to find the best way of containing this growing Soviet power. The three-quarters of the criticism aimed at Kissinger which really consists of baffled American fury about the expansion of Soviet strength is pointed at the wrong target.

It is the other quarter of the criticism which is starting to tell. This is the part which says that Kissinger has not managed the containment of Soviet power as well as he claims to have done, and that he is now sunk in a global gloom which makes it unlikely that he can lead the necessary containment operation of the future.

This serious quarter of the attack on Kissinger consists of three specific charges. The first is against his belief that it was going to be possible to bind the Soviet Union into a network of agreements with the West which would discourage it from throwing its weight about. The obvious weakness of this theory was that it always seemed unlikely that any such network of agreements between Russia and the West could ever be tight enough to have much effect on the Russians.

On top of this, it emerges that Kissinger and his colleagues had never quite worked out what to do if this network of "incentives and penalties" failed to make the Russians behave. Would the Americans then cancel their agreements with Russia? When the Russians intervened in Angola, President Ford declined to cancel his grain deal with them; the "penalty" for Angola turns out to be nothing more frightening than the postponement of the next Russian-American chat about three very minor items of business.

This is why, in the end, it does not matter much whether Russia or America is getting more out of any particular exchange of information about agriculture, or space research, or whatever. Arthur Hartman, Kissinger's assistant for European affairs, recently made a speech gallantly arguing that the 150 different projects of this kind between America and Russia are of considerable benefit to the United States. No doubt some of them are. It is difficult to believe the majority are, because on the whole the American economy and American technology are more efficient than Russia's, and expertise is going to flow, like water, from the higher level to the lower. In any event, even if the balance of advantage were exact (which is improbable), this network of agreements would not be doing its main intended job unless it was having a calming effect on the general course of Soviet policy. The first complaint against Kissinger is that it isn't, and was never likely to.

The second complaint is that Kissinger's detente policy never seems to have included an attempt to make the Russians agree about the rules of the balance of power in Europe. But the new respectability of the Communists in Western Europe is partly a by-product of detente, which made the Soviet Union itself seem more respectable. The detente policy should therefore have included a clear understanding with Russia about the East-West political competition in the two halves of Europe.

The West could and should be urging a different course on the Russian-dominated countries of Eastern Europe. This would not amount to an invitation to them to revolt. If the West was not prepared to help Hungary in 1956, nor to help Czechoslovakia in 1968, it is unlikely to intervene on behalf of a democratic rebellion now, when Russia is militarily stronger than it was then. But the West could be saying to the Communist governments of Eastern Europe that, if they want more independence from Russia, they should look at what Hungary has done to make its economy rather different from Russia's, and Rumania its foreign policy, and Poland its treatment of intellectuals. And then add them up.

Most East Europeans would like a wider range of choice, as the Czechoslovaks showed in 1968; and the West should be encouraging them to press their rulers to give them rather more choice — at first, for instance, by allowing different factions to compete within the Communist parties. It is Kissinger's failure to urge the need for change in Eastern Europe vigorously enough that is the second count against him.

The third is that he no longer seems to have the old Kissinger bounce. To be sure, he has every reason to be tired and dispirited. For seven long years he has been running the most centralized foreign policy operation since John Foster Dulles. For the past two years the American Congress's attempt to get in on the act has produced one confusion after another — Soviet emigraton, the arms ban on Turkey, the Angola mess — which Congress has then left Kissinger to try to clear up. The old idea that the government's men might occasionally have things they would like to chat about in private has virtually collapsed under the enthusiasm of American journalists for publishing any document a piqued official gives to them. Kissinger's Middle East policy has run into a sand dune; his Soviet policy has gone skidding on the icy surface of the Russian will to power. It is enough to make any secretary of state feel depressed.

But Kissinger's dispiritedness seems to go deeper than this. He sometimes sounds as if he no longer belived that Congress and administration can cooperate enough to run a coherent foreign policy, or that American public opinion is prepared to carry the weight of America's position in the world. He has been accused of being resigned to accepting second place for America, behind Russia; it is probably truer to say that he fears America is resigned to it.

If he does, he is almost certainly wrong. The main lesson so far from this year's presidential campaign is the groundswell of support for a more vigorous assertion of the American role in the world. There is no reason why the American people, with all their economic and technological power and vitality, cannot insist on military equality with Russia, and recover some of the gound lost in the past few years. There is no reason, on this year's evidence, why American opinion cannot be rallied to support an intelligent defense of Western interest.

But the effort will have to be led by a man resilient enough to understand America's own capacity for resilience. Perhaps this German-born secretary of state could escape from his apparent Weltschmerz if he remembered that he is, after all, an American now.

business

"It's the Mailroom Supervisor. He says he could have printed your new $25,000 brochure for $8.75."

NOWADAYS people want to come inside where it's air conditioned for a meal as reflected in the current Dog n Suds restaurant sketch.

Drive-ins change to meet new tastes breakfast." Fancy restaurant decor and all the trimmings represent quite a change from Dog n Suds, beginning in 1954 when hungry Champaign folks were served hot dogs in their cars.

"In the '50s, everyone was in love with his car. People liked to drive around," Stello said. "Then the love affair with the car disappeared. It was no big deal to sit out there in your car. People wanted to go inside where it was airconditioned."

Dog n Suds management decided stores should reflect change in personal lifestyles. The fast food restaurants added new items to their menus, ranging from full dinners to pancakes. Inside seating and other extras were added.

The chain did not continue to expand as expected during the '60s, however. "Then came the gas crunch, the economic downturn. People came back to the $1 lunch," Stello said. Dog n Suds executives decided to cut back on the extensive selection of food offerings at some outlets, streamlining operations.

NOW THE COMPANY is hoping for a bigger chunk of the drive-in restaurant business. About 300 outlets are located in 36 states. Sales reached $52 million during 1975. The numbers will expand as the economy improves and the public once again takes up the habit of eating out, Stello predicts.

A key to the store's image as a "good, clean respectable restaurant" is the training given at the Dog n Suds Rover College in Arlington Heights. Prospective outlet operators come to the offices at 125 S. Wilke to learn about everything from hot dog buns and wrappers to sanitation, customer relations and accounting.

"We can take a person who has no knowledge of our operation, and through classroom situations and on the job training, we'll put a person in and make him successful," Stello said.

THE FRANCHISEE, or franchise buyer, needs more than the degree in drive-in-ology from Rover College to carve out an empire in the root beer business, however. An initial $30,000 cash outlay is required of Dog n Suds franchisees. "The total investment involved is about a quarter of a million dollars," Stello said.

NOWADAYS WHEN an investor plunks down that kind of cash, a heavy volume of sales is required. Stello recalls that an operator used to set up shop for approximately $7,000. The franchise could make a profit in a few months and close down the eaterie several months a year. Newer outlets generally are slated as year-round restaurants.

Another change affecting the Dog n Suds chain will come about as a result of its affiliation with Frostie Enterprises, Camden, N.J., a subsidiary. The parent company plans to launch a new restaurant venture in late 1976. Don't be surprised to find a fancy Mr. Frostie restaurant in your neighborhood, Stello said.

Details on the new Mr. Frostie outlets are incomplete. Whatever the menu and type of service, the restaurants will be a new generation designed to meet the competition. "We're reflecting our concept of what people are doing at this time," Stello said.

Business briefs

7 industrial nations pledge cooperation

The leaders of the seven largest industrial nations concluded a two-day Puerto Rico summit conference Monday with a broad pledge to cooperate to improve economic conditions throughout the non-Communist world. President Ford, the host of the summit held at his Dorado resort, said the seven heads of state took a major "step forward in cooperation among industrial democracies."

Ford said the agreements reached "will not only benefit our peoples but the international economy as a whole." The seven chiefs of state agreed the No. 1 problem threatening economic stability was inflation. They agreed to pursue go-slow economic policies at home so as not to refuel another surge in global inflation that would be followed by another economic collapse.

The leaders also agreed to improve the international investment climate, negotiate lower trade tariffs, encourage increased trade with Communist nations and seek more cooperation and better relations with developing nations.

Meeting with Ford were Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany, Prime Minister James Callaghan of Great Britain, Prime Minister Takeo Miki of Japan, President Valery Giscard D'Estaing of France, Caretaker Prime Minister Aldo Moro of Italy and Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau of Canada.

$2.25 billion for philanthropy

U.S. corporations spend $2.25 billion a year for philanthropic causes, said a Conference Board report released Monday. Health, education, welfare and cultural programs are the major recipients of donations, the New York business group said. Corporate contributions to charitable causes rose 10 per cent between 1973 and 1974, and 71 per cent between 1964 and 1974. Contributions averaged 1.1 per cent of companies' net pre-tax income during the past decade.

Pinckneyville to get new plant

The new $276 million coal gasification plant awarded to Illinois last week will be constructed about 10 miles west of Pinckneyville in Perry County, Gov. Daniel Walker announced Monday. The site is near Southwestern Illinois Coal Corporation's Captain mine south of Cutler. It was selected by a consortium of the state's gas utilities. The consortium running the project includes Peoples Gas, Light & Coke Co., Northern Illinois Gas Co., Central Illinois Light Co., Central Illinois Public Service Co. and North Shore Gas Co. The U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration chose the Illinois consortium last week for the $20 million engineering and development award.

Air controllers end strike

Domestic and International air operations in Canada began returning to normal Monday, putting an end to the nine-day shutdown caused by a dispute over the safety of proposed bilingual ground-to-air communication. Transport Minister Otto Lang said leaders of commercial pilots and traffic controllers had agreed to revised terms of a study into safety implications of allowing instrument flight control in French as well as English at major airports in Quebec.

Beer truckers accept contract

St. Louis beer truck drivers on strike since early April voted Monday to accept a new three-year contract and end their walkout that has kept most major brands out of area stores and taverns. A union spokesman said the new contract, accepted by a vote of 343-61, essentially is the same as one rejected by Teamsters Local 133 last week, including a controversial no-strike, no-lockout clause. Wage increases are 75 cents an hour the first year and 60 cents an hour for each of the last two years of the contract. The drivers currently earn $6.55 an hour.

China buys air-defense system

Nationalist China, in one of the largest single defense contracts ever signed with the United States, has purchased a multi-million dollar air-defense system, informed sources in Taiwan and Washington said Monday. The $34 million system is being provided by the Hughes Aircraft Corp., under a private agreement signed with Nationalist Chinese defense officials, the sources said.

UOP tells of improvement

UOP's Process Division, Des Plaines, announced the availability of an improved version of its Monirex boiling point monitor. The analytical device is used to determine the boiling point characteristics in a hydrocarbon process.

Sluggish trading causes 2.46 drop for Dow

Lacking the buying punch necessary to keep the Dow Jones industrial average above the 1,000 level, prices retreated Monday in sluggish trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow, ahead more than three points at 1,002 at one time, fell 2.46 points to 997.38 for the day. It lost 3.93 points Friday as it failed for the second time in a week to stay above 1,000.

Whatever the reason, the Dow has not managed to break through its April 21 high of 1,011.02 or hold above the 1,000 in numerous tries this year, and this has hurt the rest of the market.

STANDARD & POOR'S 500-stock index, which reached a 1976 high last week, fell 0.29 to 103.43, the NYSE common stock lost 0.12 to 55.23 and the average price of an NYSE common share decreased eight cents.

Advances edged declines, however, 712 to 676, among the 1,827 issues crossing the tape. The 439 unchanged issues reflected investor hesitancy.

Volume totaled 17,490,000 shares, down from the 17,830,000 traded Friday. Throughout the past two years, volume has tended to slow as the market headed downward. Analysts find this is a favorable development.

Although the Commerce Dept. reported the nation had a $395.6 million trade surplus in May — the first in five months — the threat of inflation dominated Wall Street's thoughts.

Short term unit urged

Youth home need seen by 7-township agency

The Northwest suburban male youth who left home and can't or won't return may finally have a place to go next year if plans by the Northwest Youth Services Network are approved.

No short-term or long-term homes are available for boys in the area. The seven-township youth network met in Elk Grove Village Monday to discuss that problem.

Although a concern for longer term homes also was voiced, it was agreed that a short-term (20 to 40 day) crisis shelter was an immediate concern.

"The kid you're most concerned about is that one that you wonder where he will go at 4 in the morning," said Barbara Harris of the Elk Grove Social Service section.

BESIDES EMERGENCY foster homes, the Cook County Juvenile Temporary Detention Center (Audy Home) in Chicago is the only place boys could be sent to. But a May 1 ruling by Cook County Juvenile Court Judge William White which said that status offenders (youths who have not committed any offense considered criminal by an adult) could not be referred to the detention center by area youth agencies magnified the need for a new program.

Fifty-eight boys and girls from Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg, Palatine and Hoffman Estates were placed in the Audy Home in 1975.

Network representatives agreed that the new program would be beneficial if it was added to Shelter Inc. in Hoffman Estates, a non-profit group which places youths in voluntary foster homes. The program would be for boys aged 11-17 including runaways, truants or any other boys who cannot or will not return home for some reason. It will be patterned after the Crisis Home for girls in Park Ridge, which includes counseling.

The network designated a six-person task force to work out details of the program and to document its need.

To finance the new program, the network will request funds from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC). The request must first go through the Chicago Cook County Criminal Justice Commission. Commission official Betty Begg said at the meeting that the ILEC will appropriate $220,000 for programs in Chicago and Cook County.

Begg said three or four grants averaging between $50,000 and $80,000 would be issued in the Chicago area. Grants will not be awarded until February, 1977.

BEGG SAID SHE WAS impressed with the group's plan to create a new program within an existing agency, rather than create a new agency. "Your idea is the way to go," she said. "There does need to be the kind of hard data that would back it up."

Charles Clyburn of the ILEC also said he was pleased with the network's approach to satisfying the need.

"The one thing that impressed me is that you're talking about a conglomeration of agencies," he said. "I think it's very good and it doesn't happen often. This is a good step in the right direction."

Clyburn also warned of a possible roadblock to the plan.

"The greatest obstacle in these things is that people are very protective about their own little turf. But I haven't seen that here," he said.

The Northwest Municipal Conference also has endorsed the plan. Backing by the conference is expected to increase the chances of the network receiving the grant.

The program would serve the seven townships of far northwest Cook County, including Barrington, Hanover Park, Schaumburg, Palatine, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Maine townships.

City declares Bicentennial week

by GERRY KERN

Des Plaines has declared July 3 through 9 "Bicentennial Week" in the city and will have a "birthday party" for America.

Planned and co-sponsored by the Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce and Bicentennial Commission, the week promises to be a colorful celebration with activities for just about everyone.

The week-long celebration will begin July 3 when the Fourth Annual Drum and Bugle Corps Contest gets under way at Maine West High School, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., at 7:30 p.m. Drum and bugle corps from Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, New York and Canada are scheduled to perform. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and 75-cents for children under 12.

At noon on July 4, Des Plaines will ring in the third century of the American republic with a coordinated ringing of church bells throughout the city.

The bell-ringing ceremony will be followed with the Chamber of Commerce's parade at 12:30 p.m. Theme of the parade is "Des Plaines: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." The parade, which will include more than 100 units, floats and bands, will step off at the intersection of Oakton and Lee streets, proceed north on Lee Street past the Elks' Club, and end at the old North School parking lot, River Road and Jefferson Street.

Lake Opeka, Lee and Howard streets, will be the focal point for the city's celebration in the afternoon and evening. Yacht races and formation sailing will be held on the lake at 1:30 p.m., to be followed with foot races and other games for the eintire family at 3 p.m.

The Free Street Theatre will stage productions at 5 and 8 p.m. at the Military Memorial Band Pavilion at Lake Opeka, and the Maine West High School Band will perform at 7 p.m.

More than 25,000 residents are expected to attend the fireworks display at the park at 9 p.m. As a prelude to the show, residents are asked to bring flashlights for a special ceremony. On signal, flashlights will be turned on at one end of Lake Opeka and proceed through the crowd until the entire lake is surrounded by light.

An outdoor Bicentennial mass will begin at 10 a.m. July 5 at St. Stephen's Church, 1267 Everett St., weather permitting. A breakfast reception will follow the event. A Kiwanis Pet and Bike Parade will begin at 1 p.m. and proceed through the immediate downtown Des Plaines area.

A Bicentennial musical review will be presented at the Lake Opeka pavilion at 7 p.m. July 7, and an evening of magic will be offered at 7 p.m. July 9.

"Bicentennial Week" will climax three years of planning by the Des Plaines Bicentennial Commission, Chamber of Commerce and other community groups.

One program is under way in the city to commemorate the signing of the Declaration of Independence 200 years ago.

The Des Plaines League of Women Voters' "Signerfest" program permits residents to sign their names to a copy of the Declaration of Independence. The 11x15-inch copies are printed on parchment-like paper and are being sold by the organization at $1.25 for single copies, $1 for 5 to 24 copies and 50 cents for 25 or more copies. Proceeds will go to this year's League of Women Voters' Election Guide and Voter Service program.

Those wishing the "Signerfest" declarations should contact the Des Plaines League of Women Voters, P.O. Box 1576, Des Plaines 60018.

Buffalo Grove celebrates U.S.A. birthday on Sunday, July 4th

Parades, games booths and fireworks are being planned for the Buffalo Grove Fourth of July Bicentennial celebration.

The Sunday activities will begin at 12:30 p.m. with a parade from Lake-Cook and Arlington Heights roads, east on Lake-Cook Road to the village hall.

Carol Hall, festival committee chairman for the Bicentennial Commission, said everyone is invited to join the parade. The Buffalo Grove High School band will lead the march, she said.

Prizes will be awarded in each of seven categories for the best decorated bicycle and the best Bicentennial costume. Prizes will be either $10 in cash or a $25 bond.

A schedule of games at Emmerich Park has been planned for the entire afternoon, while Little League games will be played nearby. Adult water fights will be organized. Food will be served and arts and crafts booths and exhibits will be set up.

A fireworks display sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees will begin at dusk.

In Arlington Heights

6-day party to kickoff Wednesday

by JOE SWICKARD

Arlington Heights will commemorate the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence with a six day celebration featuring a village-wide religious ceremony, horse racing, fireworks, dances, picnics and carnivals.

The celebration, Festival '76, will begin on June 30 with a carnival and will finish on July 5 with a community dance.

Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., will be the site of the opening day festivities with a carnival starting at noon and going until midnight. The park will be the scene of contests sponsored by the park district.

An all-star jazz concert will be given at the park at 8 p.m. June 30. The program will be broadcast live over radio station WWMM.

The carnival and park district contests will continue at Recreation Park on July 1, with more exhibitions during the evening. A rock concert is planned for 8 p.m.

July 2 will feature a special senior citizens program at the park during the afternoon. A torchlight parade will be held that night at 8 followed by a reenactment of Paul Revere's ride.

Also on July 2 will be a square dance at the park and a German beer garden at the American Legion Hall across the street.

The Spirit of '76 Parade will step off at 9:30 a.m. in front of the village hall, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd., to start the activities of July 3.

The parade route will be west on Sigwalt Street and then north on Dunton Avenue to Euclid Avenue. The parade will then go to a reviewing stand at Arlington High School.

Taking part in the parade will be marching bands, color guards, drill teams, scouting troops, a kazoo band, nurses, antique cars and floats.

Guests will include Sheriff Richard Elrod, state legislators Eugenia Chapman, Eugene Schlickman, Virginia Macdonald and village officials.

After the parade will be a 4-H exhibition and a "Walk Through Yesterday," presented by the Church of the Latter Day Saints at Recreation Park. There also will be arts and craft exhibits in addition to a dance review and a late night family swim.

July 4 festivities will begin with a tour of Arlington Park Race Track and a trackside breakfast from 9 to 10:30 a.m.

A community church service, featuring a mass choir, will be held at Recreation Park at 12:15 p.m. The carnival and picnics will be held in the park during the afternoon.

A full program of racing including the $100,000 American Derby will be held at the race track. Marching bands, military displays and performing horses will start the program at noon.

The race track will be opened at 8:15 p.m. for a free program of music and stage shows followed by the Disneyworld Bicentennial Fireworks show until 10 p.m.

A handicapped children's carnival will start the program of July 5 at Recreation Park from 10 a.m. until noon. A flea market, arts and crafts shows and exhibits will take place in the afternoon and evening. A community dance will be held from 8 until 11 p.m. winding up the village's observation of the Bicentennial.

The WAC Veterans' Assn., Chicago Chapter, will observe the Bicentennial with a backyard picnic July 10, at 1409 E. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights. The picnic is open to association members and veterans of the Women Army Corps.

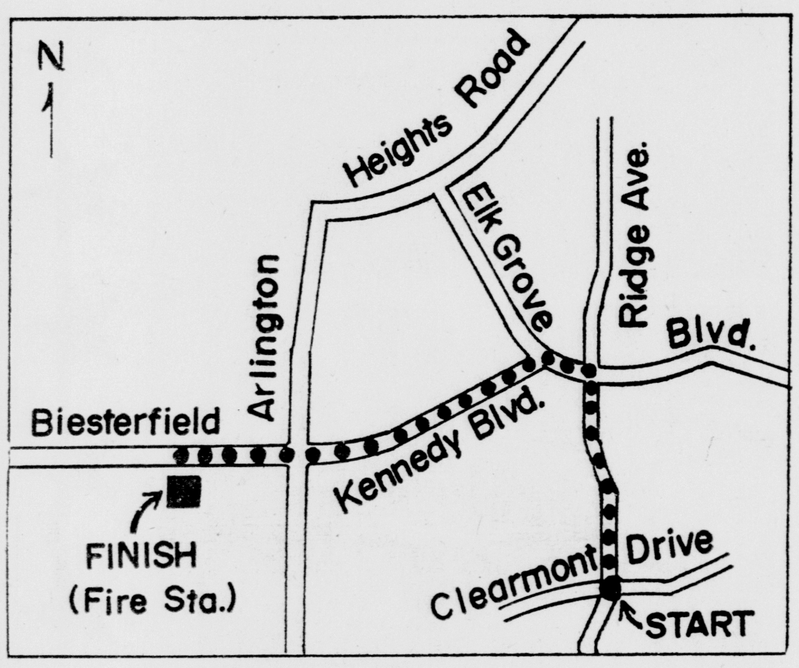
In Elk Grove Village

U.S.A., village party together



Village 20-year birthday party opens with a parade on July 18

by DAVE GALANTI

Elk Grove Village residents will be able to extend their Bicentennial celebrations late into the month as the village holds its 20th birthday celebration July 18.

Trustee Nanci L. Vanderweel, who is part of the Horizons '76 committee in charge of the celebration, has said that 28 units have signed up for the Birthday-Bicentennial parade.

Among the bands already signed up for the parade are the Chicago Stockyard Kilty Band, the Elk Grove High School Marching Band, the Paul Hall Boys' Club and three drum and bugle corps, the Guardsmen, Silver Knights and Nisei Ambassadors.

Also featured will be a 1901 Carriage Cadillac, possibly a horse-drawn float by the Elk Grove Park District senior citizens, the Medinah clown unit and the Chicago Mounties.

The parade will start at 1:30 p.m. from Clearmont School, 280 Clearmont Dr. The route will be the same but longer than the peony parade routes used in previous years. The new reviewing stand will be in front of the Biesterfield Road fire station.

Immediately after the parade, the official village birthday party will start at the municipal building, 901 Wellington Ave.

No formal speeches are planned, but the party will offer a display by local artists, a pictoral review of the village's history, historical display and the burying of a time capsule.

Copies of the village's incorporation papers, the minutes of the first village board meeting, the Horizons '76 calendar and other items will be buried in the capsule for opening in 50 years.

Former village board members, former village officlas and long-time residents will be invited to the celebration.

Celebration for Fourth of July starts Thursday with Lions' fest

by TOM VON MALDER

The 13th annual Elk Grove Village Lions Club carnival will be a four-day Bicentennial affair, July 1-4 at Lions Park, Lions Boulevard just west of Elk Grove Boulevard.

On both July 1 and 2, the carnival will open at 6 p.m., with an entertainment show at 6:45 p.m. The July 1 entertainment will be Rich Gibson and Rich musical group, with Bill Bailey's Banjo Group on July 2.

Other activities on July 2 will be 7 p.m. bingo in the large tent and 8 p.m. "Drums In the Night" drum corps competition at nearby Elk Grove High School stadium, 500 W. Elk Grove Blvd.

For July 3, the schedule at Lions Park is:

- 1 p.m. Carnival opens, flag-raising ceremony by Elk Grove Village VFW Post 9284, Northwest Patrol performance, boys' baseball all-star game.
- 2 p.m. Bicentennial bake sale in the large tent, Elk Grove Fire Department demonstration.
- 3 p.m. Second boys' baseball all-star game.
- 4 p.m. Elk Grove Police Department demonstration.
- 6 p.m. Bingo in the large tent.
- 6:45 p.m. Performance by the Atcher Family Singers.

For July 4, the schedule is:

- 1 p.m. Carnival opens, pony rides.
- 2 p.m. Tug-of-war contests.
- 3 p.m. girls' softball game.
- 3:30 p.m. Children's show in the large tent.
- 4 p.m. Jaycees-Lions softball game, beard contest judging.
- 6:30 p.m. Elk Grove Park District water show at nearby Lions Pool.
- 7:30 p.m. Sing-along.
- 9 p.m. Car raffle.
- 9:30 p.m. Fireworks display.

July 5 is the rain-date for the fireworks display.

Prospect Heights plans big parade

The Prospect Heights Lions Club and the Prospect Heights Little League Baseball Assn. will co-host the city's Fourth of July parade.

The parade will include motorcars and floats, but will not include marching bands.

The parade will begin 11 a.m. at MacArthur Junior High School, 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd., and will end at Lions Park, Elm Street and Camp McDonald Road.

Joseph Lesniack, parade coordinator, said residents will attend little league baseball games and picnics at the park throughout the rest of the day.

The newly incorporated city hosted a series of Bicentennial events the first weekend of June.

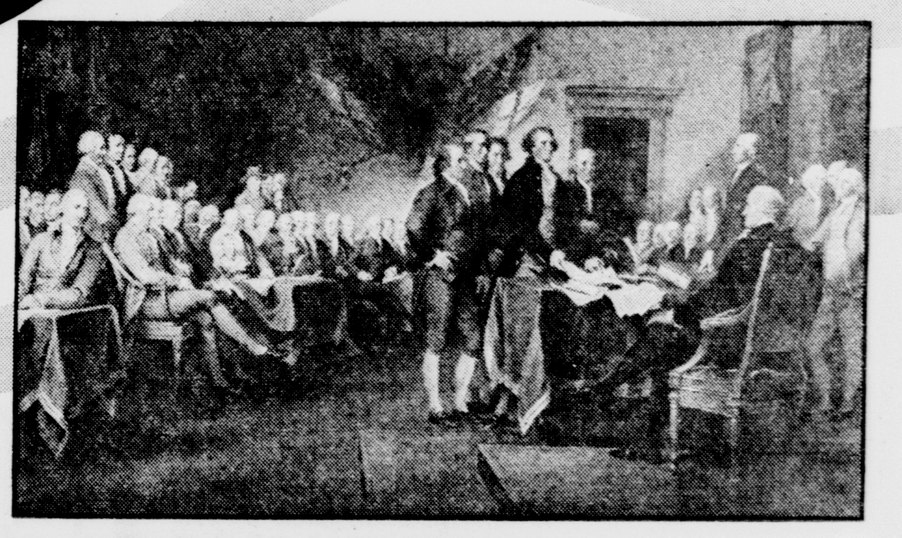
THE SPARK OF GENIUS
LIGHTS UP OUR 200TH BIRTHDAY



A "COMMITTEE" THAT WORKED...CREATED THE CONSTITUTION

Eleven years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the separate states got together to publish a guide for human freedom.

When the fighting ended in 1783 the new nation faced an uncertain future. Survival of the loose federation of states was threatened from within and without. But, held together by determination, dedication and some touches of genius, representatives of the states produced the Constitution of The United States. Congress adopted it in 1787. Never before had a system under which the right of a people to govern themselves been spelled out in a body of law. The committee had marked a turning point for the nation and the world.

In Wheeling

Village slates good 'old' 4th

by LINDA PUNCH

An old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration will climax the Bicentennial activities in Wheeling.

The Independence Day celebration begins at 10:30 a.m. July 4 with a water fight between local firemen and village officials at the corner of 12th Street and Dundee Road. The water fights will be followed by a greased pole competition and a watermelon eating contest.

The afternoon's activities include an "Old Fashioned Baby Parade" at 2 p.m. at Heritage Park, 222 S. Wolf Rd., followed by a carnival at 4 p.m. The carnival will feature games, booths and various refreshments stands

A fireworks display sponsored by the Wheeling Jaycees and the village Bicentennial Commission will top off the day's activities. The display will begin at dusk at Heritage Park.

A June 27 tour of Wheeling's historical sites is another highlight of the village celebration. The guided bus tour, sponsored by the Wheeling Historical Society will leave at 1:30 p.m. from the society museum, 84 S. Milwaukee Ave.

The 1½-hour trip will visit 21 sites of historical significance in the village, including the old village hall, the oldest tree in the village and the Union Hotel. The tour will be followed by a short lecture.

One of the largest events of the Wheeling celebration was the June 21 Bicentennial parade. More than 2,500 persons took part in the two-hour parade, including Garfield Goose, Herman Hermit and Cookie and Whizzie the clowns.

The Shriners entered more than 500 members including the Arab Patrol, the Chanters, the Highland Bagpipe Band, the Tin Lizzies, the Glenbrook Antique Cars, Indians, Flying Carpets, Vikings and Colonials.

Other participants included 10 drum and bugle corps including the Blue Stars, the Guardsmen, the 27th Lancers, the Cavaliers and the Phantom Regiment.

Marching units also included the Wheeling High School band, the Spurette's, the Wheeling High School N.R.O.T.C. marching group, the Prospect Heights Fire Department, the Wheeling Fire Department, the Fourth Regiment Revolutionary War Group, the First Regiment Civil War Group and Just Trucking Limited.

The sixth annual Parade of Champions Drum and Bugle Corps Competition at Wheeling High School concluded the days activities.

In Rolling Meadows

Residents in for big day

by JERRY THOMAS

Rolling Meadows residents are in for a day filled with activities July 4th that will culminate with a fireworks display.

All events will take place in Kimball Hill Park and the adjoining parking lot on Kirchoff Road following the annual Fourth of July parade.

Starting time for the parade is 1 p.m. with more than 65 units participating. There will be marching units, floats, clowns, bands and out of state and local drum and bugle corps.

The parade will begin at the Rolling Meadows High School parking lot and proceed down Jay Street to Grouse Lane to Meadow Drive to Kirchoff Road to disband in the shopping center lot.

Trophies will be awarded to the best entries in several divisions including junior, senior, commercial and citywide.

A panel of judges will review the parade entries from a grandstand located on Kirchoff Road.

A bicycle decorating contest also will be held with entries asked to ride in the parade and be ready for judging after the parade. The contest is sponsored by the American Legion Post 1251.

Waterfights are to start at 2 p.m. along with other entertainment such as a magic show presented by Dave Chalfont, free pony rides sponsored by the Jayceettes, games sponsored by the park district and a fun fair.

A "county fair" will be held at 3:30 p.m. with judging of handmade goods, foods, or hobby crafts.

A Fashion Parade of yesteryear with contestants asked "to wear the clothes of yesteryear," is scheduled for 4 p.m. Prizes will be awarded to those wearing the oldest or most authentic fashions.

A rock band contest and drum and bugle corps competition is scheduled for 6 p.m.

Throughout the day many local organizations will be running concessions selling hot dog, beer, popcorn and other refreshments.

A brief Ecumenical service is planned shortly before dusk with a fireworks display culminating the day long event.

Except for game booths in the fun Fair and refreshment booths, all entertainment is free.

Palatine plans busy 4th weekend

BY LUISA GINNETTI

Palatine will honor the nation's 200th birthday with a weekend long celebration July 3 and 4 based on the theme "American Heritage, Past, Present and Future."

Activities, sponsored by the Palatine Jaycees, will get underway at 11 a.m. Saturday with a Bicentennial parade featuring U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-10th, as Grand Marshall. Also in the parade will be village officials, including Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones and village trustees.

The parade will begin at Paddock School, 225 W. Washington Ct., and proceed east on Johnson Street to Brockway Street, north on Brockway to Wood Street, east on Wood to Community Park.

Immediately following the parade at Community Park, 262 E. Palatine Rd., Crane and other guests will deliver short speeches. Awards for floats also will be presented.

Saturday's activities will be as follows:

- An art fair sponsored by the Palatine Jaycees Auxiliary will be featured all afternoon at the tennis courts at Community Park.
- Afternoon baseball games at Community Park.
- Game booths for children and adults will be open all afternoon at Community Park.
- 1:30 p.m. water fights at Ost Field at Palatine High School, 150 E. Wood St.
- 3 p.m. at Community Park will feature singing by the Country Chords
- 3 p.m. at Community Park: awards will be presented in the amateur garden contest sponsored by the Palatine Garden Club.
- 4 p.m. on the stage at Community Park will be an arm wrestling contest.
- 4:30 p.m. at Sanborn School, 101 N. Oak St., will feature bingo games.
- 7:30 p.m. on the stage at Community Park the Palatine concert band will perform.

Sunday's activities will include:

- An 8:30 a.m. inter-denominational religious service on the stage at Community Park.
- 1 p.m. at Community Park a puppet show will be given.
- 1:30 p.m. at Sanborn School will be bingo games.
- 2 p.m. at Community Park will be a tug-o-war contest between teams from various village businesses.
- 3 p.m. at Community Park will be games for children sponsored by the Palatine Kiwanis.
- 3:30 p.m. at Community Park will feature a pie-eating contest.
- 5 p.m. on the stage at Community Park will be a battle of the bands competition.
- 7:30 p.m. on the stage at Community Park the Sing Out Palatine group will perform.

Fireworks displays will be featured both nights at Ost Field at 8:30 p.m.

Schaumburg plans family picnic to celebrate nation's birthday

Schaumburg residents can celebrate the Fourth of July with a family community picnic sponsored by the Schaumburg Park District.

Meineke Park, 220 Weathersfield Way, will be the site of games and activities from 1 to 10 p.m. The picnic will include food booths, pickup softball games and adult volleyball.

The park's pool and tennis facilities will also be open. There will be no charge for admission to the pool for village residents and pool passes will not be needed.

Senior citizens will be invited to join in horseshoe contests while younger children may participate in games and races.

The Ezra Quantine Memorial Ragtime Band will entertain picnickers from 7 to 9 p.m. The band will perform from the sun deck of the Meineke Park building.

A Run 4 Fun will be co-sponsored by the district and the Athlete's Foot Shoe Store, Woodfield Mall. Trophies will be awarded to winning male and female winners in each of five categories. One mile runs will be held for junior high, senior high and over high school age persons. Male and female 5000-meter runs will also be held.

Registration for the races must be completed by 1:30 p.m. The events start at 2 p.m.

Chicago offers something for everyone

by DAN BARREIRO

Plays, conferences, exhibits and, of course, fireworks will make this summer in Chicago a busy one for Bicentennial buffs.

Activities include the Chicago International Trade Exposition, the World Financial Conference and even an 1876 photo exhibit specifically intended for release during the nation's Bicentennial.

For the Fourth of July itself, there will be a reading of the Declaration of Independence at Lincoln Park and a fireworks display at Olive Park beginning at dusk.

Questions about Bicentennial activities in Chicago should be directed to the Chicago Bicentennial Committee Office, 2 First National Plaza — 5th floor, Chicago, 60670 (431-1776).

A list of Chicago Bicentennial events follows:

• Through June 30: "Chicago Landmark Houses," an Illinois Arts Council Exhibit which features photographs of city landmark residences, will be at the Pullman/Heritage Bank, 1000 E. 111th St.

• Through July 3: "The Little Foxes," a play, will be performed by the Chicago Park District on the Lake, at Fullerton Ave. at the Outer Drive, 8:30 p.m.

• July 1-18: The Chicago International Trade Exposition will be the largest of its kind in the United States, as exhibits of products from 31 nations will be displayed at the Navy Pier Exposition from noon to 10 p.m. daily. Entertainment will include three daily musical reviews on a floating stage one-half mile out into Lake Michigan. The exposition will also include ethnic, musical and dance programs and a World Market, containing exotic foods, gifts, fashions, art objects, home furnishings, electronics and jewelry for shopping. Tickets are available at any Ticketron outlet or from the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry. Extra CTA buses to and from the exposition site will be provided.

• Fourth of July: Fireworks at Olive Park in Chicago at dusk.

• Fourth of July: "An Old-Fashioned Fourth of July Celebration," sponsored by the Chicago Historical Society and the Chicago Park District, includes patriotic band music, Revolutionary War fife and drum airs, speakers, a reading of the Declaration of Independence and a Pennsylvania rifle loading and firing demonstration. The activities begin at 10:30 a.m. in Lincoln Park at the east entrance of the Chicago Historical Society building.

• Through July 15: "Pullman," an Illinois Arts Council photographic exhibit of the Pullman community, will be in the lobby of One Illinois Center.

• Through July 30: "Prairie Seaport," an Illinois Arts Council photographic exhibit depicting Chicago from the 1860's through the 1930's is appearing at O'Hare International Airport.

• Through Aug. 7: Rudyard Kipling's "Just So Stories" will be performed during the Goodman Children Theatre's Bicentennial Summer Season. Performances will be at Price Auditorium in the Junior Museum of the Art Institute of Chicago, 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Monday through Friday; 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Saturdays. There will be no performances July 3 or 5.

• Through Aug. 8: "Art at the Time of the First Centennial," is an exhibit examining art styles around the world in 1876 at the Art Institute of Chicago.

• Through Aug. 31: C. D. Mosher's Bicentennial Gift to Chicago, an exit of Mosher photographs from 1876 specifically to be shown during the nation's Bicentennial.

• Ongoing! "Creating a New Nation," a Chicago Historical Society exhibit includes a broadside of the Declaration of Independence and other historical artifacts. The exhibit also interprets U.S history from the time of George III's ban on settlement west of the Appalachians in 1763 to the 1803 Louisiana Purchase. The exhibit will appear for the next 3-4 years at the Historical Society, Clark St. at North Ave.

• The Illinois Arts Council Archicenter, 111 S. Dearborn, features films and exhibits of Illinois and Chicago architecture, walking tours of the Loop and bus tours highlighting Chicago architecture. The center is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays.

In Mount Prospect

Plan busy slate for celebration

by MARCIA S. BOSLEY

A parade, a village band concert, a carnival and a fireworks display are just a few of the ways Mount Prospect will wish the nation a happy 200th birthday this year.

Bicentennial festivities begin July 3 at noon with the dedication of the Mount Prospect Historical Society Museum, 1100 S. Linneman Rd. The museum formerly was St. John's Lutheran School.

An antique car display, radio and television announcer John Doremus and local, state and federal officials will be on hand for the dedication ceremony. Those in attendance will receive special Bicentennial keepsakes and Dedication Year Membership Certificates will be distributed.

An old-fashioned family community picnic will be held immediately following the dedication ceremonies from 2 to 6 p.m. at Lions Park, Lincoln and Maple Streets. Sponsored by Trinity Methodist Church and the village Bicentennial commission, the picnic will offer special events, games, contests and prizes for all ners. A 50-pound birthday cake, shaped in the form of the United States, is being donated by Cumberland Bakery. Prizes will be awarded for the baking contest, sponsored by Wives of the Mount Prospect Jaycees.

The celebration continues July 4 which has been designated by Mayor Robert D. Teichert as Bicentennial Sunday throughout the village. At noon, all residents are urged to participate in the Hands Across Mount Prospect project by joining hands along the village bicycle route. Red, white and blue helium balloons will be released as church and school bells ring for two minutes throughout the village marking the sound of freedom as it was proclaimed throughout the country in 1776.

Also on July 4, the Mount Prospect Art League will hold its Bicentennial Art Fair at the Mount Prospect State Bank Parking lot, 15 E. Busse Ave., until dusk. At dusk a fireworks display will begin at Lions Park climaxing the Mount Prospect Lions Club carnival which will run at Lions Park from July 1 through July 5.

The Mount Prospect Bible Church, 505 W. Golf Rd., will sponsor "American Back to Christ Day" July 4 with a 10:45 a.m. Sunday service. A Family picnic will follow at 2 p.m. on the church lawn with a 3:30 p.m. outdoor musical production, "Wake Up America."

A village band concert will be held July 4 from 7 to 8 p.m. at the new gazebo in the southeast end of the village hall parking lot, 100 S. Emerson St. The gazebo is the Bicentennial project donated to the village by the Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club.

More than 30 floats will participate in the village's Bicentennial parade July 5, bringing the commemorative weekend to a close.

The parade will step off at 2 p.m. from Prospect High School and follow an eastward route down Highland Avenue across Ill. Rt. 83 to Emerson Street. The procession will continue to Lions Park for closing ceremonies.

Marching bands from Prospect, Hersey and Arlington high schools will accompany floats down the parade route. Float themes symbolize different eras of the nation's history from the Constitutional Convention to Watergate.

In addition to the floats and bands, 16 drum and bugle corps will set the parade atmosphere by providing patriotic music. Canada and six states — Illinois, Iowa, Louisiana, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin — will be represented by the drum and bugle corps.

Arlington Park prepares for holiday extravaganza

A festive Fourth of July celebration, the most spectacular in the history of the track, spotlights the long four-day Bi-Centennial holiday weekend at Arlington Park Race Course.

Feature thoroughbred races valued at $220,000 in added money, activities for young and old alike, and the very first Sunday "flat racing" program in Illinois history spark the schedule of events.

The events start Friday with a nine race card headlined by the $20,000 added La Petite Stakes, a five and one-half furlong dash for two-year-old fillies. Charles O. Viar's Native Blossom, a double stakes victress, tops the prospective field.

Also on hand Friday will be the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps which will put on a special performance at 1:15. Displays of antique carriages and the Ford Bi-Centennial Car from Chalet Ford will be open to the public.

Friday's slate of action will also include an appearance by the 1927 Old Chicago Beer Truck. Fans are invited to have a beer from the world's largest Beer Barrel.

The excitement continues on Saturday with the inaugural running of the $50,000 added Martha Washington Handicap and music by the Chicago Archdiocese from 12:30 to 1:30. A target parachute jump into the winner's circle by a daring member of the Arlington Heights Police Department is certain to be entertaining.

The Martha Washington Handicap, a seven furlongs main course feature for fillies and mares, could lure the likes of Ken Opstein's Summertime Promise, Dan Lasater's Honky Star, and Dixiana's Red Cross, off of whom are among the best distaffers in training nationally.

Arlington's Fourth of July celebration hits a crescendo on the big day itself, Sunday, by presenting a day-long schedule of activities spearheaded by the 66th running of the historic $100,000 added American Derby.

The American Derby, long-time classic showcase event for the cream of North America's three-year-old crop, gains added significance on the nation's 200th birthday. It also sparks the first Sunday thoroughbred program in Illinois history.

The action starts at 8 a.m. with a free Open House and the regular weekly meeting of the Arlington Park Railbird Club. Free continental breakfast will be served, tours of the stable area will be given, and interviews with jockeys and trainers will be staged.

Early birds are also invited to see a horseshoer at work and look at racing displays and movies. Children will see 15-year-old Maxwell G. Horses for "petting" and saddlebred champions will also be on display.

The festivities pick up again from noon to 1:30 with a fun-filled Noon Show. A horse show by the United Professional Horsemen's Association, an Appaloosa show, a U.S. Army ranger exhibition, and a Dixieland Band show are on tap.

The races begin at 2 p.m. with the arrival of a U.S. Army Colonial Color Guard and a colorful 50-state flag display. The American Derby, carded as the sixth event, will pit some of the best three-year-olds in America going one mile and one-eighth on the grass course.

From 6 to 8 p.m. cafeteria service in the spacious Mid-America Room will be available, then at 8 p.m. a free family stage show and fireworks dis-

Power

Kingman keeps blasting away

by DON FRISKE

During a local baseball game recently, a few young boys were sitting behind the backstop at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights.

Pointing toward deep left field, they were discussing a topic of current interest — the power generated by a Dave Kingman home run.

Northwest Highway is way out past the trees in left field and just beyond that are the railroad tracks that climb slightly above the level of the highway.

The kids, much too young to have actually seen any of the shots Kingman hit as a Mount Prospect baseball star in the mid-1960s, were saying he once hit one onto the tracks.

"I think it's humanly impossible to hit one that far," Kingman said Sunday before the New York Mets' game with the Cubs.

If he couldn't do it, then he's probably correct in assuming that no one else could either.

As an outfielder with the Mets, Kingman is the current home run leader in the major leagues with 25. When he makes solid contact there is little doubt that the ball will go sailing past the boundaries of the field.

On certain occasions, the opposing outfielders aren't the only ones deprived of catching the ball. Because of the strength in Kingman's swing, sometimes even the fans have to watch the ball soar over their heads and out of the park.

"You can tell if you hit the ball good," Kingman said. "The key is just watching the ball and timing has a lot to do with it. Knowing the pitchers also helps."

When Kingman entered the majors with San Francisco midway through the 1971 season, he was an instant success with the Giants as he belted three home runs in his first four games, driving in nine runs.

He played on the coast through the 1974 season, but never really had the chance to show what he could do as a regular in the lineup.

Now with the Mets he has a chance to play every day and it has paid off for both parties.

"I hope I've found a home in New York for awhile," he said.

"There is more pressure playing in New York than in San Francisco because the writers and fans are tougher. I figure if you can play in New York, you can play anywhere."

The pressure is something Kingman is proud to have handled without much difficulty. If there is one statistic baseball fans keep track of, it is home runs.

"Everyone follows it," Kingman said, "but I don't feel any added pressure because of this. I'm not really concerned with individual achievement. Of course I have a lot of pride in what I do or I wouldn't be a professional."

Each home run leaves his mind pretty quickly and the freshest in his memory is the one that broke up a scoreless game a few weeks ago in the 14th inning against Los Angeles to give the Mets a 1-0 win.

"Dave will play most of the time. He's hitting too good to take him out," Mets' manager Joe Frazier said. "I have to keep him in there as long as I can."

Even though Kingman has won numerous games for the Mets this season with his bat, he disagrees with the theory that if he hits, the Mets win.

"There will be days when I help the team and days when I won't. It takes 25 men to win or lose," he said.

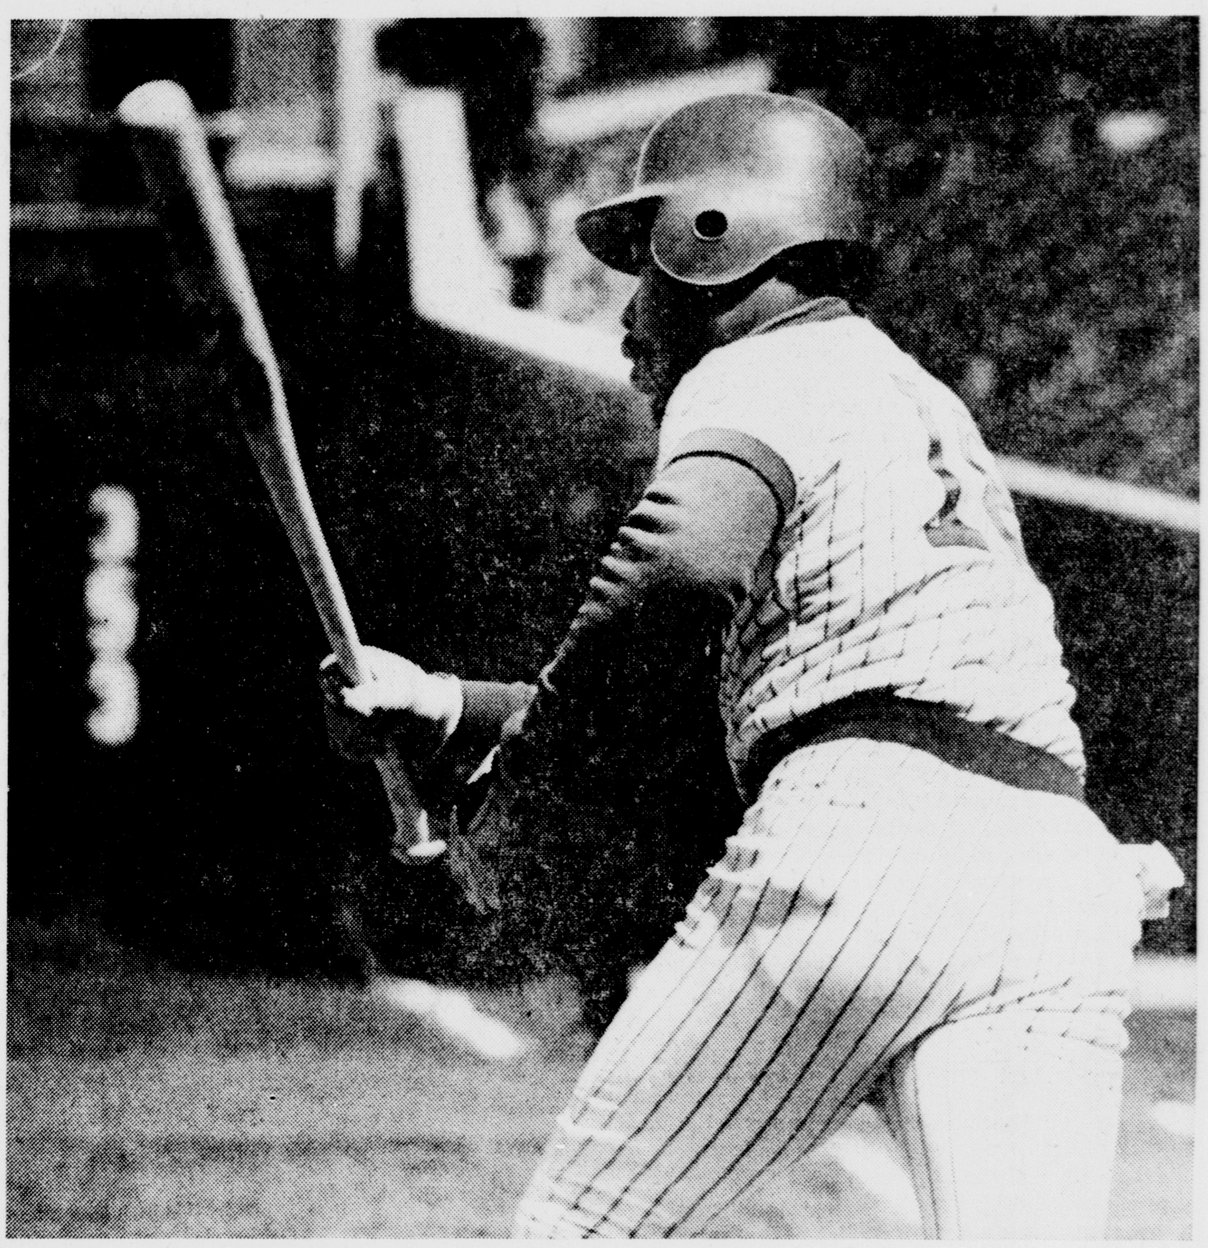
Kingman said he doesn't even think about the idea of playing for the Cubs in Wrigley Field, a place most home run hitters must dream about. But he did acknowledge that the possibility is always there.

"I'd be able to ignore the problem of being home run conscious if I played here. I'd have to," Kingman said.

Ignoring the negative aspects of baseball is one thing he is proud to have accomplished. He has ignored the pressure that comes with being closely watched by fans around the country on each pitch thrown to him, whether in a game or in batting practice.

Being successful is what he concentrates on most.

"Success in this sport comes under one word — experience," Kingman said, and that's what he is getting in New York.



LEADING SWINGER Bill Madlock of the Cubs prepares to shed his bat after swatting a base hit that upped his team-leading batting average to .312. Bill, an area resident, is the National League's defending batting champion and is moving into contention for a repeat performance.

Oliver powers Pittsburgh past bumbling Cubs, 7-2

From Herald Wire Services

PITTSBURGH — Al Oliver, the hottest hitter in the major leagues right now, was 4-for-5 and included a home run to power the Pirates to a 9-2 win over the Cubs, who were their own worst enemy here Monday night.

Oliver, the National League's hitting leader going into the contest with a .343 average helped pitcher Jim Rooker, who went the distance, get the win when the Cubs weren't helping throw the game away themselves.

Joe Coleman, now 0-3, was the starting pitcher for the Cubs, who lost their fourth straight to begin a seven-game road trip. The game was the televised backup game for the Monday night game of the week.

Coleman never recovered from a rocky fourth inning, which saw the Pirates score four unearned runs on just two hits.

But it was Oliver's night to shine. Usually it's Rennie Stennett who hits Cub pitching like it was batting practice. But Stennett missed his first game of the season with a bad back Monday, so Oliver filled in at the role of villain as far as the Cubs were concerned.

Oliver now has eight hits in his last 10 at bats. In his last 69 at bats, Oliver has 32 hits for a .463 hitting clip.

The game was delayed an hour because of the national television commitment, then another 30 minutes when rain started to fall at gametime.

The Cubs grabbed a brief 1-0 lead in the top of the second when Jerry Morales and George Mitterwald led off with back-to-back singles. Manny Trillo then drove in Morales with the third Cub hit of the inning.

Then the Pirates came back with four runs in the bottom of the frame and the Cubs couldn't have been more obliging.

Coleman loaded the bases with a walk, infield hit, then his own error on a bunt popup that he elected to let drop and turn into a double play. However, Coleman threw the ball away and the bases were full.

Coleman, after getting Rooker to strike out, walked Frank Taveras to force in a run. Rich Hebner then hit a double play ball to Trillo, who couldn't get off a good relay to second and had to settle for a force as another run scored to make it 2-1.

Oliver then laced a double to drive in the final two runs of the inning and give Pittsburgh a 4-1 lead.

The Cubs got a run in the third on a Bill Madlock home run.

But the Pirates added two more in the fifth, again aided by the overly generous Cubs.

After Hebner doubled and Oliver singled to put runners at first and third, Willie Stargell hit a ground ball to Rosello at Short. Rosello fumbled the ball but got the throw away, however, Mitterwald dropped the ball at first for an error that scored a run.

The Pirates scored again when Coleman uncorked his third wild pitch of the night and Oliver came home to make it 6-2.

Oliver's solo homer made it 7-2 in the seventh. The Pirates added two more in the eighth.

The Cubs continue the series here today with a 6:35 p.m. contest. Steve Renko (2-3) will pitch for the Cubs against John Candelaria (6-4).

'Cruising along' Rebels unbeaten after 12 games

Special to The Herald

The Northwest Rebels continued their march through the Greater Illinois Baseball League over the weekend, cashing in two more doubleheaders and boosting their league leading slate to 12-0.

"We're cruising along pretty good," said Rebel manager Rick Marino.

That may be one of the great understatements of all time. The Rebels hammered the Horner Park A's 12-4 and 11-6 Saturday then ripped the Chicago Hornets 9-1 and 7-3 Sunday.

Like all successful baseball teams, the Rebels are winning with good pitching and timely hitting.

Al Schuette won his third game of the year in Saturday's opener, fanning seven and allowing just two earned runs.

Bruce Hanson and Dean Sheridan both homered for the Rebels; Ron DeBolt, who broke out of a slump and raised his batting average 90 points over the weekend, was 3-for-4 and Bruce Eberle doubled twice and drove in three runs.

The Rebels gathered six runs in the second inning and five in the sixth to handle the A's 11-6 in Saturday's second game.

Scott Green, with relief help from Marino, picked up his second win of the year.

Sheridan's homer and Scott Day's two-run double keyed the Rebels' second inning.

Day, Hanson and Eberle had run-scoring hits in the sixth inning and John Theriault drove in a pair with a single.

The Rebels met the ghost of the Hornet team that fought Northwest for the GIBL title last year and smacked them twice, giving the Chicago team eight losses for the season.

Ron DeBolt

Dean Sheridan

"I was a little disappointed in the Hornets," Marino said. "I heard that after they lost the championship last year everybody quit.

"It wasn't nearly the same team."

It was the same Jim Bokelman in the first game, though. Fast becoming the Rebels ace, Bokelman retired 16 men in order at one point and gave up only three hits in pushing his record to 4-0.

The lone earned run he allowed shaved his team best ERA to 1.12.

The Rebels had their sticks in the right place again, scoring in every inning but the fourth.

Day, the team's leading hitter at .476, went 3-for-4 and drove in a run with an inside the park homer.

Eberle ran his RBI total to 12 as he pushed home four runs with a triple and single.

Tom Good's two triples produced three more Rebel runs.

Day took the team lead in RBI's with a grand slam home run in Sunday's nightcap, giving Willie Kozel all the offensive support he needed.

Kozel went the route for his second win, allowing just two earned runs.

Theriault also had a solo homer in the game.

The Rebels will celebrate the Bicentennial Sunday, July 4 with a doubleheader at Harper College against the Gately Pirates. Game time is 12:30 p.m.

They'll host Kenosha Monday, July 5 at Wheeling High School again at 12:30 p.m.

Unchallenged Evert in Wimbledon semis

WIMBLEDON — Rampaging Chris Evert swept aside Russia's Olga Morozova, 6-3, 6-0, Monday to lead the top four seeds into the semifinals of the Wimbledon tennis championships, thus bearing out the contention that there is no depth in the women's ranks.

In reaching the semis for the fifth straight year in ridiculously easy fashion, Evert, the top seed, has lost only 10 games, a domination unequalled since the 1930s.

The Floridian will be the only hope for the U.S. in the women's bracket since Rosie Casals bowed 7-5, 6-3 to second seed Evonne Goolagong of Australia.

In Wednesday's semifinals, Evert will play Martina Navratilova, the Czechoslovakian who nine months ago chose to live in the United States. She beat Sue Barker, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, after the blonde Briton had served for the match at 5-4 — and lost the game to love.

Goolagong will face Britain's Virginia Wade in the other semifinal — a rematch of last year's contest which the Australian won 9-7 in the third. Wade did not need to dig very deep into her repertoire to down Australian Kerry Reid, 6-4, 6-2, to gain her berth Monday.

For the sixth straight day temperatures at the All-England Club went over the 100 mark and the once-green courts are now brown and shrivelled as though acid had been thrown over them .

"The others don't seem to be playing well but maybe I'm not giving myself enough credit for playing well," she said.

Evert made the vital break in the fifth game of her opening set when Morozova hurried an overhead smash, doublefaulted, and then dribbled a forehand into the net. Until then the Russian had broken up Evert's baseline rhythm successfully, but from that moment the American began hitting harder and with more confidence, and she rattled off nine games in a row and it was all over in 44 minutes.

Everything points to Evert meeting Goolagong in the final — a player she has never beaten on grass. The seedings have gone exactly to plan and the closest thing to an upset in the women's singles came when Navratilova, the fourth seed, appeared headed for a fifth round exit against Barker, the seventh seed.

In today's men's quarterfinals, Jimmy Connors will play Roscoe Tanner, Vitas Gerulaitis will take on Mexico's Raul Ramirez, Charlie Pasarell will face Ilie Nastase of Romania, and Bjorn Borg of Sweden will clash with Argentina's Guillermo Vilas.

Reds still top All-Star voting

NEW YORK — Led by second baseman Joe Morgan, catcher Johnny Bench and third baseman Pete Rose, the world champion Cincinnati Reds are leading at four positions and running second in two others in the balloting to determine the starting National League team for the All-Star game.

Morgan, the Most Valuable Player in last year's World Series, is the leading vote-getter thus far with 1,620,538 votes, it was announced Monday by the office of the Baseball Commissioner. Bench was just behind with 1,613,165 votes with Rose the third most popular player among the fans with 1,405,580 votes.

Dave Concepcion of the Reds was leading at shortstop with 1,050,838 votes while Tony Perez was second behind Steve Garvey of the Los Angeles Dodgers in the balloting for first base and George Foster trailed only Greg Luzinski of the Philadelphia Phillies in the outfield voting.

Garvey had drawn 1,118,271 votes, Perez 825,837, Luzinski 818,615 and Foster 735,156. The third outfield post, if the order remains the same, would go to Dave Kingman of the New York Mets with 691,269 votes.

Bench, Rose, Morgan, Concepcion and Garvey all were starters for the National League last year. The balloting for this year's game at Philadelphia on July13 ends July 4.

The tightest competition in the N.L. is for the outfield berths with Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals in fourth place with 674,968 votes, followed by teammate Bake McBride (636,224), Rick Monday of the Chicago Cubs (633,616), and Ken Griffey of the Reds (633,608).

The American League leaders as of last week were catcher Carlton Fisk of Boston, Rod Carew of Minnesota at first base, Bobby Grich of Baltimore at second base, George Brett of Kansas City at third base, Fred Patek of Kansas City at shortstop and outfielders Fred Lynn of Boston, Ron LeFlore of Detroit and Bobby Bonds of California.

Judy Rankin wins Zaharias Classic

CHAGRIN FALLS, Ohio — Judy Rankin survived a double-bogey six on the 17th hole Monday to finish with a three-over-par 75 and win the $100,000 Babe Zaharias Invitational Classic by one shot over Jane Blalock.

The victory, Rankin's fourth of the year on the LPGA tour, was worth $15,000, and increased her winnings of $96,830 for the year and breaking the one-year record held by JoAnne Carner.

Carner, who came to the final hole just one shot off the lead, took a double-bogey six when she hit a tree with her drive. She settled for third place.

Rankin's 72-hole score over the rugged 6,211-yard Tanglewood Country Club course was one-under 287. Blalock finished at 288 and Carner at 290. Blalock earned $11,000 and Carner $7,600.

Sandra Palmer came in fourth at 293, while Chako Hugichi and Susie McAllister, who had the day's best round with a 69, tied for fifth at 294.

Court delays action in Buffalo suit

BUFFALO, N.Y. — A federal court judge Monday agreed to delay any action on an anti-trust suit against the National Basketball Association Buffalo Braves pending the outcome of negotiations to purchase the team by a local group.

Court action was initiated against Braves' owner Paul Snyder and the National Basketball Association after Snyder announced earlier this month he was selling the team to a Florida group.

However, a group of unidentified local businessmen announced they were negotiating to purchase the club and keep it in Buffalo.

Laywers for the city and the NBA agreed Monday to "call time out" in their legal action pending the outcome of the negotiations between Snyder and the businessmen.

Judge John T. Elfvin agreed to a stipulation drafted by William B. Lawless, special counsel for the city of Buffalo, and Richard E. Moot, special counsel for the NBA.

The agreement calls for an indefinite adjournment of the city's request for a preliminary injunction barring the Braves from going to Florida, and agreement by the NBA teams not to "authorize or approve the transfer of the basketball franchise" out of Buffalo. Corporation Counsel Leslie J. Foschio said the agreement basically "maintains the status quo."

Moot said the agreement "calls time out on the anti-trust portion of the suit" and also allows the city to continue its efforts to negotiate a lease for the city's Memorial Auditorium.

Representatives of the local businessmen and the Braves were scheduled to meet again this week to discuss the sale of the club.

Expos farm out veteran Granger

MONTREAL — The Montreal Expos have assigned reliever Wayne Granger to the Denver Bears of the American Association Monday to create a spot for the return of Steve Rogers from the disabled list.

Rogers was placed on the disabled list May 26 with a fracture of the little finger of his pitching hand.

The 32-year-old Granger was signed by the Expos as a free agent last winter and earned a spot on the major league club's pitching staff with a good spring training camp. He pitched in 27 games, all in relief, compiling a 1-0 record with two saves and a 3.66 earned run average.

Arlington Associates

Lowest total score of the seven best holes was the daily event for the Arlington Associates Golf League this week.

Melcher, Eleanor Driscoll and Shirley Kilgore not only swept their respective flights with the event but also took low gross (60), low net (37) and daily event

In flight A Melcher had low gross (52), low net (33) and 38 for the daily event.

Flight B honors went to Driscoll for low gross (7), low net (37) and daily event (43).

Kilgore captured all three events in flight C.

Pars were recorded by Millie Kelley and Love Galvanoni.

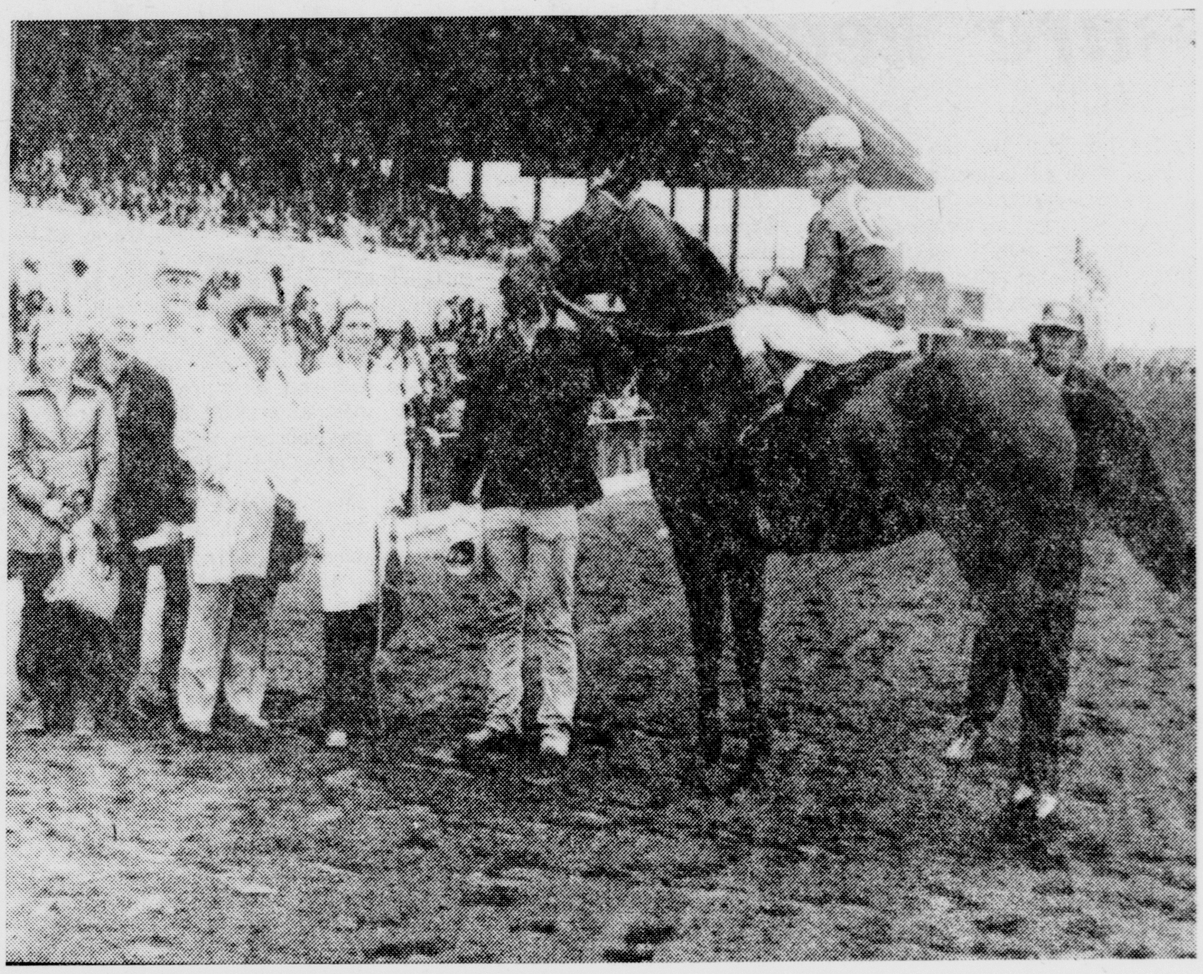
Holiday features at track



AGELESS WONDER Maxwell G. poses in a familiar environment — the winner's circle — during his 43rd career victory. The 15-year-old gelding will be one of the stars of Arlington Park's four-day Bi-Centennial celebration that begins Friday and includes a Sunday racing program.

play gets underway. A horse show, Jimmy Damon in a live stage performance, the Jump Jackson Dixieland Review, and the Disney World Fireworks Display are scheduled.

The holiday weekend reaches a conclusion on Monday, July 5th with the 1976 renewal of the famous $50,000 added Stars and Stripes Handicap. The U.S. Navy Band Concert begins at 12:30 and includes a special show put on by the Arlington Heights Fire Department.

The Stars and Stripes Handicap lured 40 of the best handicap and stakes grass luminaries in North America. Elmendorf's Inproviser, Golden Chance Farm's Master Derby, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Roberts' Honey Mark are likely to converge at one mile and one-sixteenth on the inner turf oval.

Trio qualifies for amateur golf meet

Tom Jacobsen of Schaumburg, Chris Marzalek of Arlington Heights and Gerald Scherrer of Palatine will represent the area in the 51st U.S.G.A. Amateur Publick Links Tournament at Coon Rapids, Minn. July 12-17.

The trio qualified for the team at a 36-hole event last week at Cog-Hill Golf course in Lemont, Ill. Some 185 local golfers participated in the competition that selected the top seven to represent the Chicago area in the tournament.

Jacobsen emerged as the medalist during the meet with consistent rounds of 69 and 70 for 139. Scherrer checked in with 70-73 for 143 and Marzalek duplicated the score with rounds of 71-72.

Ask Andy

Air pressure keeps plane in sky

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Elizabeth Faller, 11, of San Diego, Calif., for her question: WHEN AN AIRPLANE IS FLYING, WHY DOESN'T GRAVITY PULL IT DOWN?

A long time before men knew anything about airplanes, they observed that air had force. They could feel the force of wind blowing against them and see its force when it bent trees. Since then men have learned to put the force of wind, which is air in motion, to work. The billowing sails of a sailboat or the whirling blades of a windmill are easy-to-see examples of air working.

There are four basic forces that govern the flight of an airplane. Two of these, gravity and drag, work against the airplane, while the other two, lift and thrust, help keep it flying.

Gravity, as we know, is the force that keeps us all on the earth. The total weight of the airplane is attracted to the earth by this force. Lift is the force that overcomes gravity when a plane flies. And lift is created by the airplane's wings.

A sideways view of a plane's wing will show you that it is shaped like half a teardrop. The top surface is curved while the bottom is flat. When the plane is sitting on the ground the normal everyday air pressure above and below the wing is equal. As the plane begins to move forward, air starts to flow both over and under the wing.

As the plane moves faster the air current over and under the wing moves faster, and a strange thing happens. Since the top half of the wing is curved, the air has a longer way to travel. And to get from the front edge of the wing to the back edge, it must move faster than the air flowing in a straight line under the wing.

As speed increases, the pressure on the top surface of the wing becomes less and less. Finally the greater pressure on the bottom surface of the wing creates enough lift to overcome the pull of gravity and the plane rises into the air.

Thrust is the power that moves an airplane. In a model airplane thrust may be supplied by a large rubber band or a tiny engine. In larger airplanes one or more king-size engines do the job of providing thrust. Enough thrust must be supplied to overcome drag, which is the resistance of air to anything that is moving through it.

Airplanes are built in streamlined shapes to reduce the amount of drag. Some parts of an airplane are specially built to increase drag at certain times. Flaps on the wings, for example, are controlled by the pilot to increase drag when he wants the plane to slow down.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Mark Nimocks, 9, of Ida Grove, Iowa, for his question:

HOW MANY SPECIES OF OWLS ARE THERE?

The 525 or so kinds of owls live just about everywhere in the world except the coldest areas of the Arctic regions. These wide-eyed, wise-looking birds range greatly in size. There's the tiny six-inch-long elf owl of the Southwestern United States and western Mexico. The largest owl is the huge gray owl, a majestic bird 30 inches long who boasts a wingspan of five feet. Owls usually live alone and hunt at night when their vision is more keen. Tops on their menu are mammals, such as rabbits, shrews and rodents, although many varieties enjoy insects and fish and even other birds.

Owls are easily recognized because of their unique appearance. Considered extremely handsome, most owls have large eyes which are set off by a circle of feathers called a ruff. The soft and fluffy feathers of most varieties are in muted or drab colors to blend in with their surroundings. Gracefully swift and silent flyers, owls spot their prey with eyes unlike most other birds. Instead of operating independently, their eyes focus together on an object, like human eyes.

Do you have a question to ASK ANY? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to ASK ANDY in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

Today is Tuesday, June 29, the 181st day of 1976 with 185 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Cancer.

William Mayo, founder of the famed Rochester, Minn., Medical Center bearing his name, was born June 29, 1861.

On this day in history:

• In 1946, two years before Israel became a nation, the British arrested more than 2,700 Jews in an effort to put down terrorism in Palestine.

• In 1970, the last American troops were drawn back into South Vietnam from Cambodia.

• In 1972, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that capital punishment as then administered was unconstitutional. It also ruled that sources of information must be revealed to state grand juries.

• In 1974, President Nixon and Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev reached a trade accord at their summit meeting in Moscow and flew to Yalta for arms talks.

Ravinia provides setting for a jewel of a piece

by LOIS HENDERLONG

Mid-week review

You'd have to be a musical glutton to come away unsatiated from a session with Schoenberg's Gurre-Lieder.

A surfeit of riches awaited anyone valiant enough to brave the cold, dank Thursday opening at Ravinia Park and open-minded enough to give Arnold Schoenberg's early 20th Century cantata a chance.

Just the mention of that composer's name is enough to drive all but the strong of heart away and to bring complaints that Schoenberg's serial concoctions resemble nothing as much as the yowls of alley cats in heat. The park pavilion was only about two-thirds full, with onlookers scattered at the sides and a few hardy souls on the lawn — undoubtedly an indication not only that some concert-goers weren't going to take the chance those clouds had a silver lining, but that "contemporary" music had lost out with avid romanticists.

BUT SURPRISE — the Schoenberg of these opulent lieder bears but faint resemblance to the Schoenberg of atonal fame. When the Gurre-Lieder was written in 1900-01, Arnold Schoenberg was still in the throes of Wagnerism and this monumental work inevitably reminds listeners of Tristan, with its climbing chromaticisms that never quite resolve and its sensual vocal lines. Confronted with its gutsy Mahleresque brass and the heady intoxication of passages where strings and voice soar skyward, no lover of the voluptuos could come away unseduced.

For even attempting the ambitious undertaking, conductor James Levine deserves an ovation. Faced with limited rehearsal time, a 200-voice choir, five vocal soloists and an orchestra of mammoth proportions (10 horns, six trumpts, four harps, too many percussion instruments to enumerate and that's just the start, folks . . .), he marshalled his forces for a performance that was disciplined yet vigorous, both clean-lined and red-blooded.

To be sure, the start was less than promising. Those opening measures of twilight, translucent and delicate-tinted, should have about them a veiled, hushed quality. Germanic as is Schoenberg's score, here lies the evidence that he could paint a pastoral every bit as evocatively as Debussy. Thursday night, the misty woodwind pastels never quite blended, and entrances sounded decidedly clunky.

AS WALDEMAR, tenor Robert Nagy was a lover with a distinctly unloverlike delivery and lackluster timbre. It wasn't until the third of the lieder that both voice and orchestra let go with some rafter-raising; then, with a rush of sound, both Nagy and Levine warmed to their tasks. Off came Nagy's bow tie and as he tossed it aside, his air of reserve fell by the wayside, too. By the final part, his voice was not only better focused, but less grainy, as well.

As Waldermar's lover, Tove, Carol Neblett offered a stage presence that hinted at dramatic promise. Opera fans will be hearing more of her in the title role of Puccini's "Tosca" in the Lyric's upcoming season, and she should be well-suited for the role. Her voice is bright and flexible, her intervals free of slides and scoops — altogether, attractive sound, although either she or the night air swallowed many of her lowest notes.

For those of us who venteured out, the rewards were worth getting chilled. For those who stayed away, a recommendation. The next time somebody dares bring the Gurre-Lieder to town — and it'll be a while — try it. You'll like it.

Maybe folks were a little skeptical about taking stock in America 200 years ago.

We were young. At war. With no experience.

And who knew if we'd ever pay back the money?

Well, 200 years have passed. And the U.S. government has always paid in full. To the penny.

Now that's not a bad record.

In fact, you might say we're now a pretty well-established outfit to do business with.

So join the Payroll Savings Plan and save with today's Bicentennial issue of Series E Savings Bonds. It's easy. It's automatic.

And it's safe. After 200 years, you know we're here to stay.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Hal could break own rule

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

One principle of defensive play that Hal Sims stressed was that you should avoid scatter-gun plays. In other words, if you started one suit you should tend to keep on with it.

He felt that any time you broke a new suit you were likely to be giving a trick away.

Not that Hal was too stubborn to violate his own rules.

He sat West and made his normal opening lead of the four of clubs. Fourth best of a long suit was and always will be a standard lead against notrump.

South put his ace of clubs on East's 10 and led the 10 of diamonds. Hal ducked but had to win the next diamond.

Then he thought for a moment and planked down his ace of spades. East signalled with the nine. Hal led his last spade and declarer was down two.

As Hal pointed out later his spade lead might have cost a trick, but the only chance to defeat the contract would be to find East with those good spades.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Inside Randhurst

by Fran Altman

Happy Birthday, America

This Sunday the nation will mark its 200th anniversary, an event we here at Randhurst are observing with our SIGN UP AMERICA promotion now in progress on the mall. As a Bicentennial project, sponsored by the International Council of Shopping Centers, we invite you to come in anytime between 1:00 and 4:00 p.m. and 7:00 and 9:00 p.m. daily; between 1:00 and 4:00 Saturday and Sunday, thru July 4 and add your name to our Bicentennial scroll. Hundreds of shoppers across the nation have already affixed their names to the Sign Up America scrolls which will be preserved as a historic document.

HOLIDAY HOURS. Randhurst will be open Sunday, July 4 from noon to 5:00 p.m. for your shopping convenience. But we will be closed Monday, July 5.

BLOOD DAY. Friday and Saturday, July 2 and 3 have been designated as BLOOD DRAWING DAY by the North Suburban Blood Center. Interested persons may donate blood in the Town Hall, lower level of Randhurst. Times are: 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. Blood donations may be assigned to already existing village or company blood donation programs.

LOOK AT YOUR FEET. The Village of Mount Prospect has painted "America - 200 Years" stencils in the six Randhurst arcades entrances.

WHAT'S THAT HOLE IN THE GROUND? In a few weeks the construction site on the south side of Randhurst will be the new home of "The Sign of the Beefeater" restaurant.

Until next week, a happy and safe 4th of July from all of us.
